OTTAWA SETS STAGE FOR PARLIAMENT OPENING

Big Income Tax Sought To Help Cities of B.C.

Union Delegation Tells Acting Premier Wells Gray Cities Must Have Money

Warning Against Anticipating Help From Province Brings Quick Action

A big ingrease in income tax levied in British Columbia to bring revenue to the provincial treasury so that the province in turn can either restore grants to the municipalities or relieve them of some of their social service or other costs was recommended to Acting Premier A. Wells Gray by Reeve William Crouch and Mayor David Leeming as representatives of the B.C. Union of Municipalities this morning.

The call on the acting premier followed the warning issued by him yesterday that municipalities of British Columbia, now preparing their budgets, should not anticipate restoration of grants or further help from the province.

"While Mr. Gray told us the statement was not an official statement on behalf of the government, we got little encouragement from Mr. Gray of further help from the government for the cities," Reeve Crouch said after the conference.

MUST HAVE MONEY

Both Reeve Crouch and Mayor Leeming emphasized that it was essential the cities either get their grants back in whole or in part, or be relieved of social service charges which had been placed upon them. The imposition of an income tax to raise the necessary money was proposed, and although figures were not given, they suggested it should be big enough to raise the money they claimed the municipalities must have. If this, or some other action towards that end, were not taken, they claimed, municipalities would be forced to cut essential services. Health services were mentioned by Reeve Crouch as likely to go in Saanich if more financial help were not received.

Shanghai, Jan. 24.—Several hundred persons were drowned and an estimated 4,000 were made homeless by a sudden rise of the Yellow River in northern Hupeh province, the stricken area reported to-day.

Chinese relief agencies rushed assistance. The area is that which last fall suffered heavily from the Yellow River floods.

FIGHTING IN PARIS RENEWED

Royalists Invade Palace of Justice, Shouting For Government's Resignation

Associated Press

Paris, Jan. 24.—Fighting broke out in the austere halls of the Palace of Justice here to-day when royalists, carrying their week-long demonstrations indoors, invaded the famous courthouse, shouting "Down with the Chautemps government!"

The broad streets of Pais resembled a battle field at sunrise to-day, strewn with the remains of several sharp clashes between the police and royalist and communist demonstrators.

Street fighting in the vicinity of the Chamber of Deputies continued far into the night while the chamber endorsed Premier Camille Chautemps's protests against a campaign of mud-slinging in the Stavisky bank scandal.

The worst riot occurred outside the famous Montparnasse Cafe. Five thousand communists, leaving a meeting, paraded the Boulevard Montparnasse. Police reserves fell on them with nightsticks and after a fifteen-minute battle dispersed them.

COMPANIES INVESTIGATED

Paris, Jan. 24.—The French financial scandal following collapse of the Bayonne pawnshop was fanned anew today by police investigation of a group of nine corporations, including a private bank promoted by George Alexandre, who police said was once associated with Serge Stavisky.

Famous Indian Goes to Happy Hunting Ground

In the above picture Simon Gun-a-Noot, who was front-page news twenty-five years ago, is shown on his horse with the faithful Indian guide who provided him with provisions during the ten years he was eluding the police in northern British Columbia. The picture was taken by the late Robert S. Day at Hazelton shortly after the return of Gun-a-Noot from Vancouver where he was acquitted on a charge of murdering two white men who were alleged to have molested his wife. Gun-a-Noot died recently of influenza while on a trapping expedition and was buried at Bowser Lake, north of Stewart.

Two To Square Mile On 366,255 Area In Province, Map Shows

Minister of Lands Announces Latest Figures of Survey Branch

Since the publication of the new wall map of British Columbia by the provincial government, the staff of the survey branch of the Department of Lands has given attention to a careful computation of the area of the province, and the result has just been announced by the Minister of Lands, Hon. A. Wells Gray.

The new figure is 366,255 square miles, of which 6,976 square miles is occupied by lakes and rivers. This figure may be compared with the 394,000 square miles given in the 1897 year book, and with the 355,855 square miles given in the latest edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and with the figure 372,630 square miles recently used by the Province.

Despite its several large cities British Columbia has a population averaging less than two to the square mile, and this fact, coupled with the necessity for providing transportation routes through a rugged country, makes for a high per capita cost of administration.

The new area is computed from over forty large scale drawings from which the reductions for the wall map were made. In the preparation of these drawings all available survey information was used, but dependence sometimes had to be placed on sketches made by trappers and others, for it is a fact that an area of over 75,000

U.S. LOAN PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

Washington, Jan. 24.—United States treasury officials to-day described as "very good" the public reception of its $1,000,000,000 securities offering.

It was expected the books would be closed to-night on a large oversubscription.

The issue includes $500,000,000 of 2½ per cent treasury notes and another $500,000,000 of 1½ per cent certificates.

Business Outlook Stated Brighter

Halifax, Jan. 24.—S. J. Moore, president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, today told the annual meeting of that financial house he believed the country could look forward to a better year in 1934 than that through which it had just passed. He noted at the same time an improvement in business during 1933.

Mr. Moore declared there was no doubt Canada has benefited indirectly from the trade recovery in progress in the United Kingdom since the fall of 1931.

India Quake Toll Still Is Mounting

Rajah Says Deaths Last Week in Monghyr District Alone Totaled 25,000

Associated Press

Calcutta, Jan. 24.—An appalling toll beyond any previously hinted may be reached in India's earthquake dead, it was indicated today when the Rajah of Monghyr said deaths in Monghyr alone had reached 25,000.

It would be months, he added, before ruins could be removed to reveal the incalculable bodies buried last week by the earthquakes which shook the region during the important Moslem festival of Eidul Fitr. The rajah predicted two generations would pass before the devastated areas can be rehabilitated.

MUST PAY TAXES TO FEED ARMIES

People of Szechuan Province, China, Have Already Paid on Land Till 1998; New Demands

Canadian Press

Shanghai, China, Jan. 24.—Szechuan Province, which has already paid its land taxes sixty-five years in advance, or until 1998, is now being subjected to new levies in order to maintain the military forces of the five ruling Warlords.

It is officially announced all owners of houses and buildings must pay a special "Anti-Red Campaign Tax," which is to consist of four months' rental value of each house or building. Even if the buildings are untenanted the tax must be paid, or the property will be confiscated.

Every county or hsien is also assessed a lump "opium tax" of $20,000, to be paid in three monthly instalments. The county authorities are to get the money from the owners of land planted to poppies.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 24.—The Los Angeles Examiner to-day said Johnny Weismuller, swimmer-actor, and Lupe Velez, Mexican film actress, who were married secretly last October in Las Vegas, Nev., had decided on a separation.

"I guess it's Hollywood," the actress was quoted. "It's no use. Johnny and I, we fight, we fight, we fight. It's fifty-fifty. I don't put the blame on him. I don't put the blame on myself. We just cannot get along together."

COLD WAVE ON PRAIRIES TO-DAY

Three School Children and Mother and Son Thought Lost in Storm Were Safe

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Jan. 24. — Ominous silence which gave rise to fears that five persons had perished in a wild blizzard which swept the prairies Tuesday was broken to-day with the cheering news that all five were safe.

A trio of children in Alberta and a mother and son in Saskatchewan were feared lost after they were caught in the blinding snow, whipped by icy winds, which engulfed the open prairies. But word came to-day to say all of them were alive and well.

Bitter temperatures still gripped the entire prairie region to-day, but some relief was promised for Saskatchewan and Alberta to-morrow in the shape of "rising temperatures." Prince Albert, Sask., at 24 below zero, Edmonton and Saskatoon at 20 below, Regina and Calgary at 14 below, were typically chilly points.

Saskatchewan to-day was digging itself from yesterday's severe blizzard. The storm, felt across the plains, was most violent there.

Winnipeg was lashed by a high wind all night and the mercury sank from 30 above to six below zero.

John Rousay, forty-five-year-old farmer of the Yorkton district, was reported lost after the storm cleared to-day. After a search he was found at a nearby farmhouse. Another man named Puloch had lost his way in

One Thousand Five Hundred Stormbound Residents in Remote District Await Supplies

Canadian Press

Sydney, N.S., Jan. 24.—Isolated by snowstorms and ice-clogged harbors, 1,500 residents of scattered fishing communities in Victoria County, Cape Breton Island, to-day awaited arrival of supplies from North Sydney.

Short of food, lighting and fuel and fodder for animals, many people were said to be in "dire need," but disrupted communication lines made it impossible to learn extent of urgent necessities.

Appeals have been made to the Dominion government to send one or two of the icebreakers, lying in North Sydney harbor, in an effort to force a passage through to the stricken areas.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, Jan 24 (Canadian Press)—Sterlin drifted gently on the foreign exchange market here to-day closing at $4.98¾ for a loss of 1⅞ cents. The Canadian dollar declined 3-16 to ⅞ of a cent discount. The French franc closing at 6.23 cents, was off .04 of a cent.

Realism In Canadian Thought Advocated

General Manager of Bank of Nova Scotia Says Taxpayers Should Understand Every New Public Loan Adds to Burdens

Canadian Press

Halifax, Jan. 24.—Realism, General Manager J. A. McLeod told the annual meeting of the Bank of Nova Scotia to-day, is the greatest present need in Canadian thought.

Mr. McLeod, opponent of governmental over-borrowing, declared a new kind of realism would enter Canadian politics if the taxpayers were to appreciate that every new loan placed over him by taxing authorities will add to his burden and that "his life contains only two certificates—those of eventual death on the one hand and, on the other, the collection of this debt, either from him of his children."

The general manager described Canada's public debt in 1932 as totaling

ABDUCTORS AWAIT WORD

Gang Holding E. G. Bremer Makes Attempt Through Minneapolis Post Office

Associated Press

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 23.—W. S. Hughes, a Minneapolis postoffice inspector, to-day indicated the kidnap gang holding Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker, for $200,000 ransom, had attempted communication with his family through the Mineapolis post office.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 24.—The $200,000 ransom demanded by abductors for the release of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker, had not been paid up to this morning, well authenticated sources close to the family said.

State highway patrolmen said this bore out their investigation of the story told by Harry Bachman, St. Paul salesman, who yesterday advanced the theory he might have stumbled across the kidnapers as they drove along a highway north of here to keep the purported prearranged meeting.

Bachman related how he was bottled up between two automobiles north of Hinckley, Minn., and was prevented from forging ahead by the jockeying of the two cars. After several miles, when he finally succeeded in drawing up alongside of the leading car he was told to "beat it" and he speeded away.

Investigators pointed out this occurred at about 2.15 p.m., while the ransom money was known to have been kept in St. Paul up to 12.30 p.m., C.S.T., to-day.

Speech From Throne Is Made Ready

Ottawa, Jan. 24—The roll of gunfire, guardsmen aligned on the plaza of Parliament Square, cavalrymen trotting up the snow-blanketed driveway escorting the Governor-General—all the picturesque features that have for years been part of the ceremony, will again be enacted to-morrow at 3 p.m., when the 1934 session of the Parliament of Canada is formally opened, with the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General, reading the Speech from the Throne.

To-day a majority of the members of the Commons already were in Ottawa, with more arriving on every train.

To-day also the Speech from the Throne was being printed, the finishing touches having been given the document at a Cabinet session yesterday.

EXPENDITURE ESTIMATES

The Cabinet to-day, as yesterday, devoted time to preparation of the estimates. It could not be stated this afternoon just what date will see the estimates tabled, but it will probably be early next week. Restoration of the 10 per cent deduction placed on civil servant salaries two years ago is not anticipated; although a way may be left open to reconsider this matter when the estimates are before the House.

At the last conference between Civil Service Federation officials and the Minister of Finance arrangements were made to meet again in February to discuss salaries and other matters.

Great interest is centred in this session of Parliament for a number of reasons. First, there is a possibility it will be the last before a general election. The government has kept strict silence on this point, but some observers say they believe the people will vote before another session. If it desires the government may carry on till July, 1935.

In the field of legislation the measures which will follow the recent Dominion-Provincial Conference loom large. Public works are anticipated.

Small Children of Missionaries Arrive Here Today From Burma-Yunnan Border; Speak Only Strange Native Dialect

Two small white children, Helen and Oliver Young, who speak a strange native dialect of the Far East, and whose pets are leopards and pythons, passed through Victoria this morning aboard the Ss. President Grant, with their parents, Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Young, Baptist missionaries in a wild country on the border of Burma and Yunnan province in China. It is the children's first visit to America, and their parents' first in seven and a half years.

"I don't know just how they will manage when we get to our homes in Los Angeles," Mrs. Young said this morning. "They know hardly any English, but I don't think they will be long picking it up. They speak the strange native dialect, peculiar to that part of the Orient where we have made our home."

LITTLE ENGLISH

Coming across the Pacific Mr. and Mrs. Young started to instruct their children in the English langauge, but it got too rough to continue lessons. Both know a few words, however, and the small boy was able to say, very slowly, this morning "My name is Oliver." He and his sister carried on a lively conversation, however, in their own tongue.

Blue eyed and fair haired, the children look the picture of health and happiness. Oliver is six years of age.

SINGAPORE CONFERENCE

London, Jan. 24.—Reports which appeared yesterday concerning the conference of British, Australian and New Zealand naval heads at Singapore were described in well-informed quarters here as somewhat exaggerated.

"We are not mendicants," the Premier said yesterday afternoon. "In British Columbia we paid into the Dominion Treasury in the five-year period ended in 1932 a total of $20,000,000 more than was spent by the federal government in British Columbia, including our share of the national debt, and the federal government to-day is collecting more from the province than we are.

square miles in the north-east corner of the Province possesses not one mile of survey line, nor one survey monument, and that 673 miles of the provincial boundary line are not yet defined on the ground.

TYPES OF SURVEYS

It is interesting to trace the various types of surveys used in the new maps. There is the Dominion Hydrographic survey of the coast, the international surveys of the 49th parallel and Alaska boundary, and work done by the Geodetic and Geological Surveys of Canada. Then there are the four million acres of provincial lands surveyed for settlement in the railway construction years about 1910. Since that time there has been a gradual evolution in survey objectives and methods. Lands are no longer surveyed far in advance of settlement, but instead, attention has been focused on developing cheap and yet accurate methods of getting an inventory of resources. A permanent foundation triangulation network was laid down and large accurately constructed cameras called into service, for with two photographs taken from different known positions, the exact location of any point appearing on both can be determined. This method is known as "photo-topographical surveying" but might also be described as "triangulation with the camera." Although the method is cheap and accurate, progress did not stop there, for in recent years aerial photography has added its quota, and British Columbia has had to develop methods of use suited to a mountainous country and yet low in cost. A combination of aerial photography and photo-topography with control by a skeleton transit triangulation has solved the problem and recent large scale contour maps of the difficult but promising mineral areas of northerly Vancouver Island have cost the province a record low price of less than three cents per acre, and are done for all time.

SURVEY PROGRESS

The new wall map and the new area mark a step in provincial survey progress, but the work will not be complete until all potentially valuable areas have been topographically mapped and their possibilities and best uses determined. This work is permanent and seems to be the cheapest kind of insurance against expensive development errors on the part of the government and against the even more sad, and in the aggregate, more costly errors of poorly-informed settlers. Incidentally it may be noted that there are over 75,000 aerial photographs in the survey branch, all indexed and available for reference by those interested in development.

STAMINA OF PIONEERS

The history of surveys is the history of British Columbia. A sixty-six foot chain sent out from England in 1858 and now in the Provincial Archives, weighs 16½ pounds. The present surveyor uses steel bands 500 feet long, weighing only seven pounds. The compass has given way to the camera and to the modern transit with its twenty-four-power telescope; the canoe and back-packer's tump line now only come into use beyond the railway and the last lake or river on which a plane can land; still a perusal of the modern survey reports shows that the stamina of the pioneers survives, even though, with all such expenditures taboo, there can be no modern instance of a liquor bill exceeding the grocery bill, as happened on one survey fifty years ago.

HARPER REPORT

The view was expressed that it would probably be found that the Harper Commission which investigated the relationships of the municipalities with the government would probably contain a recommendation that financial aid for the cities should be provided through money raised from an income tax levy. It is doubtful, however, if this report will be available by the time the municipal union convention is held this month.

Mayor Leeming and Reeve Crouch also sought a promise from Mr. Gray that the members of the government would attend the convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities which opens on Tuesday, January 29. Mr. Gray stated he expected most of the ministers would be back to attend, but he was doubtful if Premier Pattullo would be back by that time. The attendance of the ministers was so desired that the union was prepared to postpone the convention is necessary, Mr. Gray was told.

BRITAIN AND FAR EAST

New York, Jan. 24.—Out of the welter of war alarums in the Far East has come the revival of the ancient yarn that Great Britain's new naval base at Singapore is a threat to peace in those waters. The New York Herald-Tribune, discussing this editorially, comes to the directly opposite conclusion.

The editorial follows:

"It is unfortunate that together with rumors of war in eastern Asia comes a revival of the misleading propaganda about the British naval base at Singapore. The fact that work has continued there in the last few years—apparently with renewed activity recently—has been seized on by pacifists as a fresh 'threat' to the stability of world peace.

"The exact opposite is the case. The British naval base at Singapore is strictly defensive. It serves as the easternmost effective outpost of the British fleet, situated at a strategic spot controlling the approaches to the routes from Europe to Australia and to China. It is not built 'against' Japan or to serve as a step in an expansionist policy. Rather is it the outpost from which Great Britain can defend the Indies and Australasia in the event of a war in the Far East—a matter of vital concern to Holland as well as to the British Commonwealth of nations.

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

"Those Americans who oppose the construction of this naval base should realize that recent action of the United States in moving to turn the Philippine Islands loose has directly enhanced the importance to Britain of Singapore. So long as the United States remains in the Philippines the common interests of Great Britain and Holland, with those of the United States, in the preservation of the status quo in that portion of the Pacific, are enough to insure the enforcement of peace. But if we withdraw from the Philippines the balance of power in the western Pacific will be overthrown. To the Dutch, who frankly fear Japanese expansion in the Philippines as a step toward taking the incredibly wealthy East Indies, this prospect is alarming. But with Britain strongly entrenched in Singapore, neither the Dutch in the East Indies nor the people of Australia need have any fears. Japan is not going to attack Great Britain. The British have no thought of attacking Japan.

FOR STATUS QUO

"Ever since the unwarranted and inexplicable attack of the Japanese on Shanghai in February of 1932 students of problems of the Pacific have been uneasy about the strength and the in-Shanghai incident is that this party. The most plausible explanation of the Shanghai incident is that this party jealous of the success of the army in Manchuria, had thought to pull off a 'coup' and dominate the Yangtse valley. But not even the most distrustful anti-Japanese believes the navy group is foolhardy enough to attempt a southward expansion so long as Britain is strongly entrenched at Singapore. A strong naval base at that strategic point is a guaranty of the status quo in the Pacific."

SOVIET GOLD TO U.S. MINTS

Restriction on Russian Imports Is Removed By New Order From Washington

Washington, Jan. 24.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to-day opened the United States mints to Soviet Russian gold.

It was one of three important orders affecting trade with newly-recognized Russia. The other two lifted prohibitions against Russian lumber and pulpwood because of convict labor production and against Russian matches because of dumping.

Mr. Morgenthau said:

"A letter to the director of the mint rescinds instructions contained in Treasury Department letters of November 25 and December 23, 1920, and advises the director of the mint that gold of Soviet origin may now be received by the mints upon the same terms as gold received from other nations."

The orders of November 26 and December 23 required the mints to recheck all gold known to be of Soviet origin or involved in transactions for Soviet account. Gold suspected to be of Soviet origin or involved in transaction for Soviet account, if tendered United States mints or assay offices, was to be received only subject to investigation.

vision of Bihar and Orissa. It has an area of 3,927 square miles and is divided by the Ganges.)

An unnamed engineer was quoted today as having declared after a survey that the names of both Monghyr and Muzaffarpur might as well be erased from the map.

Authorities generally appear anxious to conceal the true proportions of the disaster, but nothing can hide the fact that it is India's biggest calamity in generations.

OFFICIAL HOPES

New Delhi, India, Jan. 24.—The home member for India, replying to a question in the Legislative Assembly today, said the Bihar provincial government hoped the deaths from last week's earthquakes would not exceed 4,000.

of reply to the sneering criticism of our representations."

The Premier declared himself in favor of public works programmes instead of direct relief for the jobless.

"We are not broke," he continued. "All that is wrong is that we are short of cash for the moment. We have the wealth and the resources to make good any borrowing we may do in these times."

Premier Pattullo described British Columbia business conditions as on the road to recovery.

Questioned regarding the suggestion of overgovernment in the west, Mr. Pattullo stated it might be possible to centralize governments on the prairies, but British Columbia was in a different position.

"As for the proposal to reduce the representation in the Legislatures," he said, "you hear a lot about that, but the saving would be a mere bagatelle, and the result would be a wider area of representation for the individual member with a consequent increase in bureaucracy or government by the civil service."

British Columbia, he concluded, was "ready to pull her weight," and ready to do business with the Orient as soon as enough money was obtained in the Orient. For that reason he declared himself interested in the proposed remonetization of silver.

Washington, Jan. 24. — President Roosevelt to-day had before him for transmission to Congress a $1,116,000,000 request for civil works and other emergency funds.

Although foreseeing some possibility of a congressional attempt to raise the $350,000,000 Civil Works Administration ante, administration advisers believed late intimations from the President that this work would continue beyond May if there was sufficient need might quiet any major storm.

COLD WAVE ON PRAIRIES TO-DAY

the storm while returning home yesterday evening from Yorkton. He came on Mr. Rousay, also lost. The two managed to make their way to a dwelling.

STAYED WITH NEIGHBORS

Hanna, Alta., Jan. 24.—Alive, after many hours of shelter in a prairie shack from the fury of one of the worst blizzards of the season, the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stifle were home to-day.

The children—Mary, fourteen; Vernon, twelve, and Pauline, eight—had made their way to the home of a neighbor, near Sunnynook, and when the storm abated last night he returned them to their parents.

Word of their safety reached Hanna this morning when search parties, under the direction of Royal Canadian Mounted Police, which had set out at dawn, returned to town from the Stifle home.

Except for slight frostbites, the children showed little signs of their battle against the wild blizzard which beat down on them soon after they started a three-mile walk to school on Tuesday morning.

BOY ACTED AS GUIDE

The resourcefulness of the young boy saved the trio. Soon lost in the storm, Vernon guided his sisters to a fence, making his way south with the swirling, drifting snow at his back. They followed the fence to the home of J. Kaemp, battling deep drifts for nearly three miles, where they obtained shelter. Late last night Kaemp drove them home.

FATHER ALMOST LOST

The father nearly lost his life in a futile search for the children shortly after the storm broke Tuesday. With tracks obliterated, the father started out in search of the children in the face of the blizzard. He, too, became lost but soon found shelter in a neighboring farm home from where search parties were organized.

During the hunt yesterday, men of the district scoured the fields en route to the school, roped together to keep them from becoming separated in the blinding snow.

SHELTERED DURING STORM

Tessier, Sask., Jan. 24.—Mrs. James Norris, fifty, of Zealandia, and her son John, who farms near this village, are safe. Word they had stopped at a roadside farmhouse when blizzard yesterday made further progress impossible, was received at 9 o'clock this morning. A search was begun for the mother and son yesterday when they failed to reach the Norris farm after a trip by sleigh from Zealandia. Unable to find any trace of them, villagers and farmers feared the worst and had planned to start fresh searches to-day.

NEW PLANS

Havana, Jan. 24.—Cuba again took her place among the recognized governments of the world to-day and her new leader, President Carlos Mendieta, set out to solve her affairs at home.

Powers now listed as recognizing are Mexico, Colombia, Uruguay, Chile, the Dominican Republic, China, Italy, Bolivia, Costa Rico, Peru and France.

RETIRED MILITARY LEADER DIES

Canadian Press

Montreal, Jan. 24.—Major-Gen. C. J. Armstrong, retired, former officer commanding Military District No. 1, London, Ont., died in a hospital here yesterday following a two weeks' illness. His home was at Carillon, Quebec.

Other deaths reported in Canadian Press dispatches yesterday and to-day were:

Montreal—Michel Helbronner, fifty-eight, architect, litterateur and soldier.

Toronto—Henry Mason Robinson, seventy-five, noted horseman.

London—Sir William Bate Hardy, seventy, eminent biologist.

Berlin—Hedwig Heyl, eighty-three known as Germany's "Hindenburg of the Kitchen," leader of women and author of a famous cookbook.

PARDONS FOR FOUR

It was the one salient fact gleaming through the murk of erroneous rumors that the thirty-seven-year-old son of Adolph Bremer had been slain and found dead, and that he had been freed, unharmed, after payment of $200,000 ransom.

Two persistent reports could not be harmonized with confidences uttered by well-authenticated sources.

One was the forecast of close friends of the family the banker would be freed soon. The other was a report that the elder Bremer had received a second note from the gang conveying to him instructions for paying the ransom.

ASKED TO "KEEP OUT"

An appeal to newspapers and police to "keep out of this" had been voiced to-day by Adolph Bremer, the father.

"If Eddie does not come back I will hold newspapers and police personally responsible," declared the wealthy brewer.

Interviewed at his home, where he waited expectantly for word his son had been released, the elder Bremer late yesterday said the newspapers "spoiled all chances of contact with the kidnapers so far."

He held that if newspapers had not given publicity to the fact that a note had been received, he would have made the negotiations and "my son would have been free by now."

Opportunities Seen By Manson

Principles of Liberalism Called For By Country To-day, Says M.P.P.-Elect

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 24.—"The Liberal Party must apply principles of Liberalism to present-day conditions or die," declared A. M. Manson, K.C., M.P.P.-elect for Omineca, at the annual meeting of the Laurier Club here yesterday evening. He spoke on "The Challenge to Liberalism."

"People are speaking in no uncertain terms, demanding action and not makeshift remedies," he said. "And just at this point let me say the day is pretty well past when people concern themselves greatly with politics. When political parties win elections, the changes are frequently the result of rebellion and not of constructive policy."

The speaker declared the Liberal Party for centuries had battled against greed and oppression and in the cause of liberty and humanity. It had been the middle-of-the-road party, he said a barrier against reactionary Toryism and against radicalism. The movement to the left in recent years had been very marked, he continued, and the accusation was being hurled repeatedly, more recently by the C.C.F., that the Liberal Party and the Conservative Party were one.

COURAGE NEEDED

"Aggressive action is demanded," said Mr. Manson. "There is not always reason in demands that are made, nor would I advocate bending to every erratic wind that blows, but courageous, determined action there must be.

Extolling past deeds of Liberalism, Mr. Manson declared the question was not "What we have done, but what we shall do."

"We have abundance about us, but want, starvation and unemployment on every hand. Our distribution system has failed, and a vast accumulation of wealth is held in comparatively few places," he said. "Shall we mark time and trust to a kind Providence to lead us out of the morass?

"Shall we uproot the system, as our Communistic friends and the C.C.F. would have us do? Or shall we bend to reactionary Toryism and guard capital and vested interests? Shall we indulge in revolution and permit it to take place with its uncertainty of outcome and all its dangers?

REDISTRIBUTION

"If not these things, what then?" continued Mr. Manson. "Courageously we must compel redistribution. Capital must be our servant. Capital in the form we have it must be dethroned. It must not continue to be our master. Available labor must be distributed.

"There is something radically wrong when we talk in terms of party, not Canada, or terms of youth in order to destroy idleness. If we don't destroy idleness, Canada will pay a price that can not be measured in terms of money. There is no excuse for general poverty in the face of hoarded wealth.

OPPORTUNITIES SEEN

The speaker asked: "Is the Liberal Party wanting in ideas and courage to deal with the situation?"

"The Liberal Party has its chance at Victoria, and I hope will have at Ottawa soon," he continued. "There must be no beating about the bush. If the Liberal Party is wanting in fearlessness, let it die. One realizes the problems are international, but it doesn't follow there is any justification on that account for marking time. If we take no action, there is a penalty just as certain as the sun rises. I am afraid in England you have seen that penalty applied to the Liberal Party.

"If the Liberal Party does not apply principles of liberalism, another party will, and the Liberal Party will become but a memory—attrition to the right—attrition to the left. Death of the Liberal Party may not be important.

"Dilatoriness in application of sane principles of liberalism to the social and economic problems of the day would be indeed regrettable. Those of us whose allegiance is to the Liberal Party have a great heritage."

In closing, Mr. Manson paid a high tribute to the efforts of President Roosevelt in the United States, describing him as a great liberal.

TOURIST AID FROM DOMINION

Advertising Request Made at Ottawa, G. I. Warren Tells Convention

Canadian Press

Quebec, Jan. 24.—Possibility of the provincial government increasing its grants for tourist publicity purposes was hinted here yesterday at the annual general meeting of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus by Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Mines and Highways.

Efforts of the association to get the Dominion government to undertake an extensive advertising campaign to make Canada better known were referred to by George I. Warren, Victoria, B.C., retiring president. The association was fully justified in itself, he remarked, and many valuable contacts had been established during the year under review.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary past presidents, Mr. Justice Arsenault, Charlottetown, and George I. Warren, Victoria; honorary president, Hon. J. E. Perrault, K.C., Quebec; president, C. C. Hele, Toronto; first vice-president, Lieut.-Commander G. F. C. Poussette, Winnipeg; second vice-president, D. Leo Dolan, Fredericton, N.B.; third vice-president, G. H. Webster, Vancouver; fourth vice president, A. J. Campbell, Halifax; secretary-treasurer, George A. McNamee, Montreal. J. Gordon Smith, Victoria, was elected to the directorate.

NINETEEN FACE FRAUD CHARGES

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 24.—Nineteen men to-day were held here on charges of obtaining food by fraud. The men yesterday left two Pender Street cafes without paying for meals they had just eaten, saying, "Charge it to Pattullo."

LEOPARDS, PYTHONS CHILDREN'S PETS

and Helen is four. The temperature in their hill home, near the head hunters of Burma, never is below forty and rarely above eighty, so that the climate is ideal for youngsters. The children enjoy their life there, having never known any other home. They will all go back in about a year, and when Helen and Oliver reach school age they will be sent to the missionary college at Rangoon.

STRANGE PETS

"Oliver and Helen have been brought up within sound of the jungle and its noises, which are fearful to most people. But these two don't mind them in the least. They are never frightened," said Mr. Young. "We have a small zoo near our home where we keep leopards, tigers, bears, pythons, monkeys and other animals of the jungle. They are the pets of the youngsters. They play with them as children in America play with cats and dogs," he added.

It takes some traveling to get out of Yunnan province, according to Mr. and Mrs. Young's interesting story. They have been so long in the jungle that they can't see anything unusual in traveling for days through dense underbrush and over lone mountain trails on horseback. They left their home on the Yunnan border December 1, accompanied by Mr. Young's brother and twenty-six natives. They used twenty-seven pack ponies and averaged between fifteen and twenty miles a day. The journey took twelve days. At night they made camp in the jungle, left a few of the natives on guard against wild beasts and slep soundly. Leopards roared not far away, pythons hissed within a few yards of the camp and jungle birds and monkeys chattered away in the trees.

At a place called Monglem they dispensed with the pack horses and natives and took the train 800 miles down through the hills to Rangoon, passing through Mandalay. At Rangood they stopped a few days at the mission house and then boarded a British steamer for Singapore. There they took a Dutch steamer for Hongkong, where they took passage aboard the President Grant.

HEAD HUNTERS FRIENDLY

"The head hunters, among whom we live," Mr. Young stated, "are really very friendly. Of course we wouldn't like to get among tribes we do not know. They might become quarrelsome. But our people are quite civilized now. About 15,000 of them are Christians. They keep themselves busy on their farms and lead a peaceful, quiet life, doing good in their own queer way."

Mr. Young's father has been a missionary in Burma and Yunnan for forty-five years. His son was born there and thinks that part of the world is a fine place in which to live. The Young family, with Mr. Young's father and his brother and sister-in-law, are the only foreigners within miles. Once a year they go down to Rangoon for supplies and news from the outside world. Rarely do they have visitors. A few years ago, when in Rangoon they met a party of Yale graduates out for adventure, so the missionaries invited them to visit their mountain home. These were the only outside people in there in many years.

From Seattle to-night Mr. and Mrs. Young will go down the coast to visit Mrs. Young's people in Los Angeles. They will be in the United States a year, and will then return to the Far East. They have not yet decided whether they will return across the Pacific or go back by way of Europe and India. One way is as quick as the other, their mission home being about half way around the world.

"I like it out there very much," remarked Mrs. Young. "In fact, I wouldn't care to live anywhere else. But I was a long time getting accustomed to it. Life there is so different from the life I had led at home in Los Angeles."

Canada was exposed to powerful influences originating in Great Britain and the United States through her financial dealings in London and New York. "We feel," he said, " . . . . the consequences of policies which are originated in Britain and in the United States, naturally not in response to our needs but in response to their own.

"These consequences are reflected in the value of our dollar on the foreign exchanges, in our own domestic level of prices and even, to some extent, in our taxable capacity.

"If we are to be masters of our own destinies in such a situation, we cannot afford to be the slaves of debts."

JAPANESE ROYAL BIRTH TOLD TO SPIRIT OF ANCESTOR

UNIFORMITY IS REQUIRED

Junior Chamber Told of Needs For B.C. Fruit in British Market

One of the first steps necessary for B.C. growers to gain a foothold in the British market for canned fruits is to ship under one label and at one price, M. C. Davies told the Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening.

The agricultural group of the chamber, under Warren Martin, will take up the matter, it is understood.

Mr. Davies pointed out that B.C. was losing the bulk of the canned fruit trade to Oregon merely because the shipments were not combined under one label. Last year, for instance, Oregan sent 10,000 cases of canned loganberries to England on a group basis under one label and at one price. It was far more advantageous to English buyers to secure their goods in this way than to pick up individual B.C. parcels at varying prices, he said.

Mr. Davies agreed to discuss the question further with the agricultural group in an effort to arrive at some policy which will lead to a plan for improving the system of B.C. producers.

The junior chamber also learned of a move now under way to have a livestock yard established in Victoria. Negotiations between Frank Partridge, vice-president, and mainland breeders were outlined, the plan being to establish a market in Victoria where breeders from up-island points may assemble to buy or sell livestock.

A project advanced by George E. Willis for a swimming gala at the Crystal Gardan to raise funds for clothing for the unemployed was endorsed. Admission would be by pieces of used apparel.

The debating group of the chamber reported on elimination contests now under way for the purpose of choosing a team to meet the Bates College speakers here.

Trustee P. E. George, chairman of the finance committee, reported on a plan for amalgamating group funds in one bank account and also a resume of the work of the Canadian products group.

A review of the junior chamber's work during the last few years was given by Walter Miles, past president.

The commission will function until Newfoundland becomes self-supporting again.

BIG RISE IN ADVERTISING

Nestles of Canada to Spend 100 Per Cent More on Publicity

BRADFORD ELLISON

Definitely associating himself with the tide of optimism now rising in Canada, Bradford Ellison, vice-president and general manager of Nestles of Canada, to-day issued a statement on Nestles' sales plans for the months ahead.

"Business conditions are such today," said Mr. Ellison, "that Nestles are definitely committeed to an increase of 100 per cent in advertising expenditure over that of 1933. This evidence of faith in Canada's comeback is a logical move in Nestles' history. For years we have been consistent users of the newspapers—in good times and bad. We have always relied on this medium for our main sales results, believing that the newspaper, with its influence on home life and its powerful and enduring hold on the consideration of readers, is the ideal advertising medium for a household product like Nestles' Milk. Thus, at a time like this when Canada is apparently on the road to recovery, we find it easy to justify even a 100 per cent increase in advertising.

OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

"For many years now I have been making periodic surveys in person from coast to coast and I can say with all confidence that not since the pre-depression days has such a high spirit of optimism been noticeable throughout the Dominion, and such tangible reasons for this optimism as those which I encountered on my recent trip.

WM. F. STEVENS, VANCOUVER, DIES

Machinist Formerly on Staff of Times Succumbs in Terminal City

Vancouver, Jan. 24 (Canadian Press).—William F. Stevens, fifty-nine, linotype machinist in the Vancouver Sun composing room, died suddenly at his home on West Nineteenth Avenue here yesterday.

The passing of Mr. Stevens is mourned by friends and acquaintances in Victoria. For a number of years he was composing room machinist for The Times. Leaving Victoria, about eighteen years ago, he went to The Calgary Morning Albertan, where he served in a similar capacity. From the Alberta city he moved to Vancouver, becoming a member of the mechanical staff of The Sun. Some four or five years ago he spent several months in Victoria, substituting for the machinist of The Times. At other times he visited Victoria for brief periods.

W. J. McRae has been made revision court judge in Golden in succession to H. C. Rayson. Arthur Levy has been named for a similar position in succession to N. McLean in the Slocan district.

CRUSADE FOR WORLD PEACE

Intensive Drive Launched From Duncan Is Given Widespread Support

The World Peace Crusade, organized to conduct an active and intensive campaign for the outlawing of war, was officially launched to-day from Duncan, B.C., with 40,000 people in Canada and other countries as signatories to the pledge.

The widespread campaign marks the first real attempt to unite the peoples of the world, which began nine months ago with the printing of the "World's Only Peace Solution" in The Victoria Daily Times, followed by a fuller article in The Cowichan Leader, which was reprinted and issued in pamphlet form.

The League of Nations Society of Victoria considered the plan as too important a contribution to be dealt with by the local body and it was forwarded to the league's headquarters in Ottawa. Favorable comment was received from statesmen and clergy in all parts of the world.

C. de C. Johnston, author of the crusade, who served overseas, realized that if its ideals were to be fostered a concentrated effort was essential, with the result that the peace crusade was evolved.

ORGANIZING EXECUTIVES

Organizing of an executive for British Columbia is proceeding and announcement will shortly be made of the personnel. Executive bodies are in process of formation to represent each province of Canada.

The organizers of the crusade state the returned soldier organizations are giving encouraging support to the movement, and the youthful membership is also said to be growing rapidly. The crusade has been advised of many special meetings which are being called for various clubs and societies to endorse its aims.

AIMS OF CRUSADE

An outline of the two objectives of the crusade is given in "The World's Only Peace Solution," an official pamphlet of the crusade, and are as follows:

Statute: This country cannot declare war on any nation or send troops to a foreign soil, without first submitting a referendum to the people, in the following manner:

(a) The nation to be warred against must be publicly proclaimed in the referendum.

(b) Reasons for declaring war must be clearly stated and the government will submit the reasons first to a committee comprising a member from each party in the said government.

(c) The above clauses must be promulgated for a period of time, not less than four weeks, before a vote is taken

(d) This vote is compulsory.

(e) A two-thirds majority must be registered to declare war.

(f) This referendum failing to pass gives the League of Nations or a similarly constituted body full power to settle the dispute.

(g) Recruiting stations, stirring military music, pamphlets, orations, crude drawings and other forms of war propaganda are banned during the period of the referendum and its proclamation.

(h) Statute I is ultra vires in case of defence.

Secondly, the crusade urges state control of the manufacture of armaments.

Herein the peoples of different nations are given an opportunity to unite on a common platform. Petitions have proved useless. The crusade pledges the individual.

Knowing the impossibility of accomplishing the aims of the crusade simultaneously in all countries, its first attempt will be made upon the English-speaking nations of the world, with Canada as its first objective. No nation need fear to put the laws advocated by the crusade into its constitution, for they will be applicable only to nations which adopt similar laws. Owing to the rapid changes in several countries and to the setting up of dictatorships, the crusade advocates a further protection for the people, namely, a defence clause which allows a nation to mobilize for defence purposes only without a referendum of the voters.

The crusade executive will be composed of ten members from each nation to be known as the international executive. Under the crusade's constitution political exploitation is impossible. No member of the executive may accept nomination to public office. Each country will have a national executive of thirty members. Membership in the crusade is free and is open to all, regardless of age, creed or color.

STATES INDIA DISILLUSIONED

A. I. Rajah Singham, Missionary, Tells Round Table Views on Country

Twenty years of disillusionment and propaganda against the British have contributed largely to the spirit of unrest in India to-day, A. I. Raja Singham, representing the Indian Christian Mission, told members of the Round Table Club at their dinner yesterday evening in Speedie's Cafe.

Before the war British administration had enjoyed tremendous prestige in that country, but this has been severely shaken by the events of 1914 to 1928.

To his way of thinking, India presented one of the most complicated problems the world had known in the last fifty years. East and west met there. Business life of the twentieth century stood beside the private life of the sixteenth.

The caste system could not, he said, be altered by any person on the outside. Only the Indian himself could change that.

Mahatma Gandhi had started his work twenty years ago at the wrong end of things, the speaker believed, saying an appeal to the educated minority by Gandhi would have been more successful than the course the Mahatma had chosen.

CLEAVAGE

Mr. Singham pointed to the cleavage between the young and the old of India. The former were in revolt largely over their opposition to the caste system, to which the elder men adhered for its privileges.

Less trouble was evident in Indian at present than there had been recently, the speaker said, adding there was a growing conviction in that country that self-government in India would mean control by a privileged class. Only twenty per cent. of the population was interested in politics, he said.

If India were to accept Christianity wholeheartedly its troubles would come to an end, Mr. Singham believed.

Woman Convicted Of Manslaughter

Canadian Press

Edmonton, Jan. 24.—William Fusty yesterday evening was acquitted of a charge of murdering his father, Fred Fusty, at their farm home near here December 24, while the young man's mother, Mrs. Lilian Fusty, was convicted of manslaughter.

A strong plea for mercy for the woman was attached to the jury's verdict. Mr. Justice J. R. Boyle reserved sentence on the woman till Thursday, saying he would hear pleas of the defence and prosecution counsel in the interim. He also expressed willingness to hear any delegations on the woman's behalf.

THE BOURBON MIND

There are a few extracts from the speech which Premier Bennett delivered at the first annual banquet of the Federation of Conservative Young Canada Clubs of Ontario in Toronto last Saturday night which should be given more emphasis than it was possible to give them in the ordinary news dispatch. We have taken the following:

> The greatest leader the Liberal party ever had was "General Depression," Prime Minister R. B. Bennett declared in a speech here Saturday night. "But he is being slowly driven off the field, and Canada, I am proud to say, is in the forefront of those forces bringing about his defeat."
> "In a time of suspicion, doubt and unrest, it has been to this great party that the people have always turned."
> The Liberal party had not a single constructive suggestion to offer in meeting the depression, the Prime Minister said.

It ought to be safe to say that there are very few supporters of the Conservative party between Victoria and Halifax who would claim that the present government in office at Ottawa has had anything to do with "bringing about" the defeat—not yet accomplished, by the way—of what the Prime Minister calls "General Depression." We do not pretend, nor do we suppose many of Mr. Bennett's followers will pretend, to understand the government leader's recent mental processes.

The Prime Minister says the Liberal party had not a single constructive suggestion to offer in meeting the depression. At the regular session of Parliament in 1931, Mr. Mackenzie King, opposition leader and leader of the Liberal party of Canada, suggested to the Prime Minister that he establish a competent impartial national body to examine the whole problem of unemployment—our major problem at that time, as it still is—and then advise the government as to the best method of dealing with it. This proposal of the leader of the opposition was not a party proposal—the government had been in office only a few months and thus, if any attempt had been made to make party capital out of it, this surely was not the time to try to make it—it was a proposal the adoption of which Mr. King considered would have been good business for the country as a whole.

Prime Minister Bennett ignored the suggestion at last year's session.

"The Liberal party had not a single constructive suggestion to offer in meeting the depression," says the dispatch set out above. But, surely it is not frivolous to ask, was there really any need for Mr. King's party to worry itself very much about the problems with which the country was confronted when the new government took office in 1930? We recall that Mr. Bennett expressed himself thus when he toured Canada in the summer of the year mentioned:

> The Conservative party is going to find work for all who are willing to work or perish in the attempt. I promise to end unemployment. There is no excuse for unemployment in a new country so richly endowed with natural resources as Canada.

And was it not Hon. Hugh Guthrie, now Mr. Bennett's Minister of Justice, who put his leader in a very bad spot during the election campaign when he said Mr. Bennett would end unemployment overnight? He stands excused for this exhibition of political fervor during the heat of a hectic bid for power in the hot summer days. The facts are, however, that when the Bennett government took office there were unemployed in this country approximately—estimates varied at the time—150,000. One of Mr. Bennett's Ministers recently announced that more than a million Canadians were drawing relief of one kind or another, while the latest official statistics indicate that about 700,000 workers are idle. If "the Liberal party had not a single constructive suggestion to offer in meeting unemployment," what has the government over which Mr. Bennett has presided since August 7, 1930, to put against its leader's promise quoted above?

Then it will be remembered that Mr. Bennett said he was going to "blast" his way into the markets of the world by the use of his own special brand of tariff dynamite. A business worth $2,400,000,000 in 1930 is now down to about $900,000,000! The blasting process was not "into" but "out of."

A part of the second paragraph of the dispatch we have quoted says: "In a time of suspicion, doubt and unrest, it has been to this great party—Conservative—that the people have always turned." But when Mr. Bennett goes to the country next time he will be asked a lot of very awkward questions. Perhaps, however, he will leave the job of leading "this great party" to somebody else—while there is time for him to be included in the birthday honors list next June.

THE MOUNTING DEATH TOLL

Safety-first campaigns, warnings by the million, and appeals to common sense do not seem to have cut down the toll of death which automobile accidents exact every year in the United States.

Figures recently compiled by a large insurance company show that 29,900 citizens of the republic on the south of us were killed in such accidents last year; and while this is only a small increase over the total for 1932, the fact remains that the death list was proportionately a good deal higher—because there were fewer automobiles on the highways in 1933 than there were in the previous year.

It is pointed out, moreover, that the ratio of fatalities to the number of accidents has increased by nearly six per cent, and that the increased number of deaths occurred despite the fact that auto registrations and gasoline consumption had dropped.

If some pestilence were sweeping a nation at this rate, of course, every possible force would be mobilized to check it and is it to be suggested that the United States and other countries will continue to sit by placidly and accept this frightful auto death toll as one of the inescapable hazards of modern life?

NOT BAD AT ALL

A recent dispatch from Washington will not make Canadians feel any the worse. Roosevelt administration forces think comparative per capita debt figures will provide a cogent argument to shoot back at Republican snipers at the ten-billion-dollar budget.

For the peace of mind of taxpayers who might take alarm at astronomical figures, it has been explained that a $36,000,000,000 public debt would mean a United States per capita debt of only $280. That would be for every man, woman and child.

Against this, it is set out that Great Britain has a per capita national debt of $858, and France $480. Canada's per capita debt on the same basis is only $251.

VALUABLE AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHY

The photographic library of the Topographical and Air Survey Bureau of the Dominion Department of the Interior at Ottawa has now collected more than 500,000 aerial photographs, which are filed and indexed for consultation by business men seeking information for use in engineering and other development work.

Visitors to the bureau include prospectors, mining engineers, hydro-electric power engineers, railway and transmission-line builders, foresters, geologists and others interested in developing Canada's resources.

The forester discovers the kinds of trees and the density of the forest, so that he can form an estimate of the stand and locate his roads; the water-power engineer sees the course which his canal must take and the place where the dam must go; the route of the railway or transmission line lies plain before the engineer; and the miner not only looks at individual rocks and upturned strata, but views the geological structure over great areas and can thus lay out his plan of campaign.

Northern Canada alone is an enormous country and the summer season is short. To examine it all even with the aid of airplanes naturally will take many years; and, if simply visibly examined, or even sketched, the next prospector or prospecting company would have to do it all over again. It is for this reason that the department at Ottawa, as a measure of the soundest economy, is having aerial photographs made of areas which seem most immediately promising. Once this is done, the results are not circumscribed or evanescent. The photographs are a permanent record, and they can be multiplied and sent to different parts of the country to be examined, not by one set of pioneers alone, but by all who seek any form of natural resource.

During the past season a portion of the appropriation available was devoted to aerial surveys in the vicinity of Great Slave and Great Bear Lakes, where major geological structures occur, and where important prospecting activities are now going forward. The work was successfully carried out, and revealed an interesting "fault" or "dike" some 200 miles long, extending from Artillery Lake, east of Great Slave Lake, in a westerly direction to Slave River, as straight almost as a parallel of latitude. The photographs of that "fault" tell an important story as to structure, and are of great value to the mining men of Canada who are interested in this part of the Northwest Territories. A valuable work is assuredly being carried on.

REMOVING THE CLOAK

President Roosevelt's pledge that his government is finished with the old policy of armed intervention in the affairs of its Latin-American neighbors is generally being described as a historic modification of the Monroe Doctrine. Or, as one writer says, "it might be more accurate to say that instead of a modification it is a restoration of that doctrine."

Originally, the Monroe Doctrine simply was a declaration that the United States would resist any attempt by European powers to establish new colonies, protectorates or "spheres of influence" in the new world. It was only comparatively recently that it became a cloak beneath which the United States interfered in the internal affairs of other nations.

President Roosevelt's declaration restores it to its old position. The historic doctrine is back now where it was when first promulgated.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE FRONT DOOR OPENED
The Ottawa Journal

Return of the United States to the legal sale of liquor has given the St. Pierre traffic a deadly blow. In September shipments from Canada to the convenient French islands amounted to 253,000 gallons, in October to 296,000 gallons, but in November to only 28,360 gallons. The flow of intoxicating beverages from Canada to the United States once more is direct, open and aboveboard. Canada can well afford to give up the St. Pierre-Miquelon business in favor of a legal sale amplified and expanded by the urgent requirements of the great American drinker.

THE ENGLISH POLICEMAN
The Christian Science Monitor

The average English policeman is not in the least impersonal. He smiles good-humoredly at the chaff of the crowd which he is restraining. He will take care of a lost dog or of an old woman who cannot remember the way home. He will give a suspected offender the benefit of the doubt before arresting him. If he is in a tight corner he expects the by-standers to assist him, and they seldom fail. The general public feel that he is on their side, and that the rules of conduct which guide him are those of common justice—in other words, fair play.

Loose Ends

Our politicians don't realize the truth—and we don't know our native greatness—when will some one write about the commonplace things of our Canadian life?

By H. B. W.

PUBLIC MIND

MR. ROOSEVELT, who is, above all, an uncanny politician, has developed a remarkable system of grasping the public mind. He doesn't depend on his instinct or sixth sense. Every day on his desk and on the desks of all his chief advisors, is laid a private newspaper of 120 mimeographed pages, containing thousands of brief paragraphs from almost every newspaper in the country, commenting on the policies of the government and the latest activities of the President. If he has any doubt about public sentiment after he has read all this mass of information, Mr. Roosevelt sends some of his special corps of expert investigators to the scene of trouble and they give him the facts.

It was through this excellent intelligence service that the President was able to know that the last farm strike would collapse, although his public advisors warned him that it could not be stopped. He refused the farmers' demands, going on instead with his own relief programme, and the threatened revolution did not occur. In the same way he made sure in advance that the public would accept his recent breath-taking budget.

This is all very sound and will prevent many blunders, like those of Woodrow Wilson, who could have saved the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations if he had realized how the public mind was working, or of the unfortunate Hoover, who imagined, even in the middle of the last election, that the country was dry and that he was going to be re-elected, whereas it turned out that he was all wet and defeated.

IN CANADA

IT'S TOO BAD some of our Canadian politicians don't develop a system of finding out the temper of the public mind. In a fairly wide friendship with politicians of various sorts I have never met one who, after being in high office for a year or two, had not failed to lose touch with the public almost entirely. For example, the last three premiers of British Columbia, who were defeated overwhelmingly at the polls, never foresaw this result for a moment, although nearly everyone else seems to have expected it.

The trouble is that no one will tell a prime minister the truth if it's unpleasant. The hardest-boiled egg hesitates, when he gets into the chill and eerie premises of government, to talk out as he does on the street. A premier won't believe his enemies and he can't trust his friends.

Mr. Bennett should have a system like Mr. Roosevelt's. It would open his eyes most unpleasantly and most usefully. But then, realizing what the country thought of his government, perhaps he would put off the election for another year. Meanwhile the good old myth that a government under our system remains in office only during the pleasure of the electors still goes on, and our governments can truthfully say after the election that they didn't realize how the public felt about it.

GOOD EARTH

MRS. PEARL BUCK has written another splendid book about China. With the others that have preceded it, she has given the western world an entirely new idea of the Chinese people. For the first time the great mass of them, the real people close to the soil, have ceased to be a complete mystery to the western mind, and we have grasped something of the amazing strength and vitality and greatness of China. It is a new revelation to most of us, quite unsuspected before.

Some day, I suppose, some fellow big enough for the job will do the same thing for Canada. He will see in the commonplace facts of our Canadian life, which we take for granted, the great story of the Canadian people who live close to the soil, out beyond the pavement. There are hundreds of Canadians as interesting as any who ever trod the good earth of China, women as strong as Mrs. Buck's "Mother," young men as worthy of literature as her "Sons." But no one pays any attention to them.

The casual traveler sees only a few people in overalls beside the road. Those who know them don't have Mrs. Buck's genius of interpretation. Up to now we haven't achieved much more than wild stories of the Mounties. We have never grasped the toiling, immemorial drama of our land. But when someone with the necessary equipment to write these things does appear we shall discover, in a blinding flash, that we have an unsuspected greatness, a mighty power, an unknown strength here, only a few miles from home.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

CAVALIER: A PORTRAIT

Perhaps we bore you, Cavalier,
You seem so alien to us here,
As from the wall with sombre gaze
You frown upon our futile days.
When you were in the flesh, ah, then
You fought and drank and fought again!
The women, too, with dancing feet
Had eyes more bright and lips more sweet
Than these slim girls of our to-day;
Your loves were far more bold, more gay,
And when one passed a wind-tossed leaf,
Another soon assuaged your grief.
No wonder that you look askance
Upon our maids with cold, veiled glance.
Your very cloak a symbol seems
Of time, as colorful as dreams.
And through its crimson draperies
Bespeaks more vivid hours than these
For ways so savorless and queer,—
We ask your pardon, Cavalier!

FOUL BAY

To the Editor:—All newcomers to Victoria exclaim at the ugly name "Foul Bay," which is often commented upon. A visitor from the east was asked by a Winnipeg friend if he were going to stay at "Smelly Cove," or a place with a name equally objectionable! It certainly is strange that the residents of that area do not unite to get the name of their particular bay changed to something more pleasant.

SUNNYSIDE.

"FOUL BAY"

To the Editor:—In a recent news item you mentioned that the name "Foul Bay" was world-famous, as a letter with only that address arrived safely at its destination. Is it any wonder? Is there any other community that would stand for a vile name like this, even though, as one lady remarked after the recent sad accident, "The Bay is living up to its dirty name."

SCRIP VS. CASH

To the Editor:—As one who is guilty of the crime of poverty, and further guilty of the crime of being a relief recipient, compounding crime as it were, I would be grateful if you would kindly insert this letter in your paper.

The Montreal civic authorities have tried the experiment of giving money (cheques) instead of scrip to their people on relief and found the system much cheaper (cost of auditing being less) than the old scrip vouchers. Now, Mr. Editor, if the poor in the east can be trusted not to make beasts of themselves, surely the poor in the west may be treated the same. By receiving cash the recipient of relief is given the opportunity of hunting the somewhat elusive bargain, but if he or she receive scrip they are tied to certain stores and are at the gentle or otherwise mercy of those stores.

BERI-BERI

To the Editor:—With reference to the cases of beri-beri which have appeared on the west coast of the island, it may be of interest to know that in northern Brazil there are two kinds of beri-beri prevalent, known respectively as "Creeping" and "Galloping."

The first, as the name implies, being gradual, commences in the lower extremities and works upward to the vital organs with fatal results.

The other is greatly dreaded by the natives and is frequently fatal within forty-eight hours.

In that region the only known remedy for either disease was a short sea voyage, without any other treatment. When the voyage was taken early in the development complete cure generally resulted.

SQUARE DEAL FOR RATEPAYERS

To the Editor:—After reading the interesting announcement made by Mayor Leeming of the decrease in tax collections for the past year, it should give both members of the council and also ratepayers food for thought.

I might remind the aldermen that so long as outsiders are appointed to civic positions to the detriment of ratepayers this state of affairs will continue.

I will endeavor to point out the most glaring instances of outsiders being placed in positions over the heads of ratepayers.

1. Four outside residents, non-taxpayers are engaged at the City Relief Office drawing down good salaries at the expense of the hard-pressed ratepayers.

2. The following glaring insult to our ratepayers is credited to our board of school trustees, who have seen fit to employ a single man who was until quite recently a ratepayer of Alberni, B.C., for twenty years to a janitor position at Victoria West school. Just think of any outside municipality employing a Victoria taxpayer in these hard times!

Trusting that the powers that be will awaken themselves to these facts and try to rectify these wrongs to our ratepayers.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF THE B.C. INDIAN

The council of the B.C. Historical Association has recently decided to devote a few of the meetings of the Association to popular subjects to be dealt with in a popular manner.

The second of these subjects is "An Historical Sketch of the British Columbia Indian." The council announce that Mr. W. A. Newcombe, who is a prolific correspondent with all the chief authorities in North America on the native races and is one of the outstanding authorities on the Haidas of the Queen Charlotte Islands, has consented to give a popular lecture next Friday, January 26, on the above mentioned subject. There is a vast amount of material available, both printed, photographed and old articles of Indian make in museums, which it will be the object of Mr. Newcombe to bring to a focus in an address.

The council of the association extend a hearty invitation to all, especially the young men and women, in Victoria to attend this lecture, which will be held upstairs in the Provincial Library in the Parliament Buildings at 8 o'clock sharp. All the meetings of the association are open to the general public without charge.

On behalf of the council,

F. V. LONGSTAFF, President.

THE C.C.F.

To the Editor:—May I, in the matter of space, be permitted to encroach on your courtesy? A letter appeared in your columns of January 22, signed "P. W. Rawson."

Every word in the above letter shows malice and the entire ignorance of the writer of the true facts of the question of which he treats.

In the first place he states that hundreds of people, like himself, are anxious to drive a nail into the coffin of the C.C.F. This may or may not be true.

The writer, so blinded by his own verbosity, evidently fails to see that in contradistinction to any coffin simile, over 150,000 voters of British Columbia at the last election, showed conclusively that they preferred to rock the cradle and give nourishment and support to that lusty and vigorous infant, the C.C.F.

Secondly, I myself tuned in on the radio to the C.C.F. broadcast from Hotel Vancouver on both Friday and Saturday evenings, and listened to the same rousing speaker. Mr. Rawson's account of what he heard re section 98, was entirely at variance with what I myself heard, and was so garbled as to give an entirely misleading impression.

His reference to the howling multitude I will pass with the comment that a meeting of like kind, would, I presume, under capitalist auspices, become an enthusiastic gathering.

By the way, Mr. Editor, no word of either of these densely packed and overflowing meetings appeared either in your own jounrnal or that of your notoriously partizan and somewhat misleading contemporary. May I venture to suggest that your correspondent has, perhaps unconsciously, presented the dying capitalistic system with a new bogey. In place of the now discredited bewhiskered Bolshevik we now are to have the raucous-voiced C.C.F.'er.

Now, sir, whether or not that disgrace to a British country, Sec. 98, is wiped from the statue books, the C.C.F. has arrived, and as an organization which puts the needs of humanity before individual profits, it has come to stay, and will, in the inevitable course of events, sweep before it that grasping, inhuman derelict we know as capitalism.

A BIG INDUSTRY WASTED FOR B.C.

To the Editor:—If our Minister of Fisheries were following in the footsteps of the Mother Country and making it lawful only to catch herring by a 2½-inch gill net and stop issuing Seine net licenses to these large companies that use these nets with only one-inch mesh that catch everything but water, it would mean work for hundreds of idle fishermen during the months of October, November, December and January. It would also make work for at least one hundred young women to kipper the herring and work for several more curers.

At the moment our B.C. herring, salted and sold in China, returns a net price of $10 a ton, roughly six times less than fish fertilizer. A nice picture!

Now, the finished product of gill net herring in kippers in our local markets wholesale is worth $160 a ton after employing hundreds of men and fully one hundred women and using the thousands of boxes that would be needed at the rate of ten pounds to the box.

The net return of a ton of fresh herring is roughly 1,200 pounds of kippers. So that instead of catching 60,000 tons as at present with gill nets, only 10,000 tons or less would be caught. As you know, only ten per cent of the herring that are caught in the seine net are fit or large enough for Canadian trade. Hence, the low price in China. The English way of catching and curing herring is better. It has been going on for hundreds of years, employing thousands of women and men. There is no corner business about this. You can see the reports from time to time of train loads of women and men going to Yarmouth and Lowestoft to cure herring for the Russian and German markets.

Of course, we all know it could not be done here in such a big way, but there is room for improvement. I have been in the fish-curing trade fifty-five years, roughly thirty-two in the Old Country, and twenty-three years in Victoria. I ought to know a little about it. If our herring curers in the Old Country got the same returns as British Columbia gets from China for these herring they would last only one season. Why can not we start to employ our idle fishermen and also our unemployed young women and do business in our fisheries in a business manner.

Royal Oak

Rev. F. Comley presided over the annual vestry meeting of the St. Michael's and All Angel's church in the Parish Hall at Royal Oak on Wednesday, January 17. Reports were read by the secretaries of the A.Y.P.A., the women's auxiliary and the Sunday school, all of which had a year of great activity.

The women's auxiliary has been instrumental in supplying parcels of clothing to many who were in need. Under the leadership of Mrs. Comley and Miss Oldfield a sewing committee was organized and rendered great aid in the work.

R. Butt presented the financial report, which was satisfactory. P. Warren made a brief survey of the year's work.

An outstanding event in the church's year was the celebration of its jubilee on St. Michael's Day, which was signalized by the parish becoming self-supporting.

The rector appointed P. Warren to act as his warden, and R. Butt was re-elected as people's warden, with Miss K. Butt as envelope secretary.

Votes of thanks were passed to the rector and Mrs. Comley, Mrs. Jackson as organist, and all church workers.

LESS FRUIT PRODUCTION

A very material reduction in the volume of fruit-tree production during 1933, as compared with 1932, is shown in the report of W. H. Robertson, provincial horticulturist, as presented to Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture.

The figures quoted are: for apples, 4,366,000 boxes in 1933 and 5,192,000 in 1932; for crab apples, 131,000 boxes in 1933 and 134,000 in 1932. For pears there is an increase of 1,000 boxes shown, being 167,000 boxes in 1933 and 166,000 in 1932.

In stone fruits there was a similar decrease. Of plums and prunes, 255,000 crates were produced in 1933, compared with 363,000 crates in 1932. Peaches in 1933, produced a volume of 181,000 crates, and in 1932 there were 250,000 crates. Apricot shipments were 78,000 crates in 1933, as compared with 168,000 in 1932. Cherries held more nearly to the volume of the previous year, being 193,000 crates in 1933 and 210,000 crates in 1932.

While there were decreases in the acreages throughout the province planted to lettuce and onions, the report shows increases of 600 acres in tomatoes and eighty acres of cantaloupes.

"Y" ANNOUNCES HEALTH SERVICE

With the object of prescribing exercise instead of the customary physic for those who are suffering from too much heavy food and office chair, the Y.M.C.A. has announced a new personalized health service, beginning on Monday next, under the direction of Archie McKinnon.

The service includes examination by a doctor, followed by grading of special types of exercise to suit individual cases, the assignment of a personal locker in the locker-room, the use of showers, invitation to a series of Wednesday luncheon-lectures on "What a Businessman Should Know About His Body," and admission to the full privileges of membership in the "Y," including right to participate in regular businessmen's classes, games and swimming, and facilities for membership in such classes as public speaking.

The classes will take place every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 12 noon, beginning December 29. In addition to these times, special individual hours can be arranged, or regular outside classes.

The "Y" gymnasium is equipped with a comprehensive set of apparatus which should cover all the needs of the classes. The association has long specialized in health in all its phases and is well qualified by its experience in every branch of the question to help repair the ravages of modern business conditions.

MOCK FESTIVAL AT HIGH SCHOOL

Victoria High School is enveloped in song these days. At the Victoria High School students are practicing for the mock musical festival to be held in the school assembly February 2. Student choir conductors are busy training choirs in parodied verses of life at High School, set to modern tunes. Harold Gray, manager for division 14, the festival sponsors, reminds those who intend entering in any class to do so not later than Friday. In connection with the festival a poster competition is being conducted, a prize to be given to the student whose poster best advertises the festival. In all the mock musical festival promises to be the event of the year, providing fun for both competitors and spectators.

Counterfeiter Has Term Cut

Man Sentenced in Kamloops Coin Case to Serve But Five Years

Edward Baker, erstwhile soldier and school teacher, and convicted counterfeiter of Kamloops, secured a reduction of half of his ten-year sentence when he made a personal appearance before the B.C. Court of Appeal yesterday.

His companion, Stanley Waye, failed in an appeal against both conviction and sentence.

The pair were arrested at Kamloops after provincial police uncovered a plant there for making spurious 25c and 50c pieces. Baker was taken into custody near Kamloops and Waye was arrested at a Sorrento relief camp, forty miles away. He had some spurious coins on him at the time. Molds for making coins were found near a shack in which the two had been living previously.

The trial judge gave Baker the heavier sentence because he held him to be the ringleader of the two. The appeal court held, however, that there was not sufficient evidence to substantiate this suggestion, and accordingly reduced the term to five years.

The maximum sentence for the offence is life imprisonment.

Baker also appealed against conviction, and suggested the moulds found hidden in the shack might have been left there by persons previously occupying it. It was a ruin of a place in which many slept in the course of the year and he had occupied it with Waye only about six weeks, he said.

He said he had served eight years with the British army in India and in the Great War.

Waye, in his appeal, declared he had been working for some time prior to his arrest for a Chinaman at the rate of $1 a day, and this was not the action of a criminally-minded person. He also alleged the money expert called by the crown had changed his testimony in regard to the spuriousness of the coins found on him.

The chief justice, however, pointed out the trial judge had been satisfied the coins were spurious.

Denials of other points in the evidence were made by the prisoner, but the court pointed out a jury had been convinced of his guilt.

MARKET NOTES

The experimental post-Christmas shipment of Japanese mandarin oranges which arrived here Monday is reported selling well and the wholesalers are completely sold out already. They are confident that the next load, which is due in two weeks' time, will meet with similar success.

Celery, now being imported from the United States and selling at a high price owing to heavy seasonal and dumping duties, is reported to be finding a ready market.

The Ss. Europa will call in Victoria for the first time this evening to unload a shipment of bananas.

This evening will also see the arrival of the first large consignment of Bahama tomatoes to be sent by sea to this city.

The market for Delicious apples rose twenty cents per box in the Okanagan yesterday, and followed suit here among the wholesale dealers yesterday.

Monday saw the arrival of loads of lettuce from the Imperial Valley and spinach from Walla Walla. Small loads of these vegetables are continually arriving.

TOLL BRIDGE PLANS SEEN

New Westminster Company Officials See Members of B.C. Cabinet

Plans of the proposed toll bridge across the Fraser River to replace the present New Westminster bridge, which might be closed if the new bridge is constructed, were placed before Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, and Hon. K. C. McDonald, Minister of Agriculture yesterday.

The ministers discussed the matter with J. A. Campbell, solicitor, and J. C. Collins, director of the Fraser River Bridge Company, and will be considered by the whole cabinet before any steps are taken.

The company, which has had the bridge charter for several years, proposes to erect a modern steel and concrete bridge 600 feet east of the present structure. It will be 160 feet above the water, giving ample clearance for all shipping. It will have a forty-foot deck, wide enough for two lines of traffic, and a six-foot sidewalk. Authority for a 25c toll for automobiles will be sought, but by using strip tickets the rate would be cut to 15c.

The company says that road approaches now available avoid the necessity of highway construction and it is in a position to proceed with the work as soon as it is sanctioned. It asks no financial guarantees from the government.

OPPOSE MAN AND WIFE EMPLOYMENT

Ward Liberal Association Expresses Views on Two in Family Working

Opposition to the employment of married women in the civil service when their husbands are also working was expressed by Ward Two Liberal Association in a resolution passed yesterday evening, as follows:

Resolved, that this association go on record as being not favorable toward married women being employed in the civil service while their husbands are at the same time employed elsewhere.

The need for jobs at the present time was discussed in argument on the resolution, the speakers pointing out that employment of man and wife worked a hardship on others who had no employment.

President J. W. Casey was chairman of the meeting, and announced a dance will be held Friday evening at 8.30 o'clock in the Liberal headquarters.

H.B.C. Employees Guests At Banquet

Annual Reports of Beaver Club Trace Activities of 1933

A. J. Watson Gives Encouraging Message and Receives Honor

Affairs of the Beaver Club, the social and athletic organization of the Victoria branch of the Hudson's Bay Company, are in excellent shape, much good work was done during 1933, and the members are looking forward to the coming year with renewed optimism, it was shown in the annual reports read at the banquet held in the Victorian Restaurant of the local store yesterday evening. Nearly 400 employees attended. A. J. Watson, manager of the store, was in the chair.

For the tenth consecutive year Mr. Watson read the annual president's report. In it he traced the activities of the Beaver Club during 1933. He said the club assumed greater obligations than ever before in its history and yet finished the year with a balance that was a credit to all concerned. Much good was done and sick claims, doctors' bills and hospital fees were settled for the employees. A new employees' cafeteria was opened. He touched upon the social and athletic activities of the club, and mentioned the newly-formed orchestra and the dramatic club. He urged all employees to take an active interest in the club, and thanked all members of the retiring general committee for their good work. Although he has retired as president of the club, Mr. Watson assured the members he would be just as much interested in its operation as ever.

THANKED COMPANY

The secretary's report was read by Thomas Wilkinson. Membership in the Beaver Club is now 99 per cent of the store's employees, Mr. Wilkinson said. He thanked the company for their generous co-operation, reminding the gathering that for every dollar contributed to the welfare fund by the employees the company donates a like amount, and said that if it were not for the generous donations by the company the financial statement would not show such a favorable balance.

Don Fish, chairman of the sports committee, traced the athletic activities of the club during 1933. The football club, he said was successful in winning the most-coveted trophy of the league, the Rennie and Taylor Cup. Hubert Hansen of the club's cricket team had been picked to play on the team against the touring Australian team. The softball team did exceedingly well. The ladies' basketball team and the carpet bowling team gave good accounts of themselves, he said. Much interest was shown in the golf tournament and Bert Lanning of the drivers' staff won the A. J. Watson cup. The annual turkey shoot was held at the Armories, and the five-pin bowling team is at the top of the league, Mr. Fish stated. He referred to the successful annual picnic held at Elk Lake, at which the women's grand aggregate was carried off by Miss P. Butts and the men's grand aggregate by Don Fish.

NEW DEPARTMENTS

Two new departments of social activities were created in 1933, George McAdams, chairman of the social committee, stated in his report. These were the Players' Club, formed in October, and the Beaver Club Orchestra. He thanked D. J. McDonald and W. H. Davis for their work in connection with these new departments. He referred to the choir and its annual concert, and thanked L. J. Smith and A. S. Woollard for their attention to this phase of activity. A hike to Langford Lake, a picnic to Elk Lake, as well as the annual picnic, the dances held during the year, and the "Beaver Club Revue," held when managers of the Canadian stores were here earlier in the month, were mentioned in Mr. McAdams's report.

The financial affairs of the club were in satisfactory shape, it was shown in the report of Miss Irene McAdams, treasurer. Much money had passed through the hands of the club during the year, and much good had been done.

The general committee named for 1934, from which the officers will be elected, was named as follows: Thomas Wilkinson, George McAdams, Miss Betty Shadbolt, J. Oakman, Charlton Smith, L. D. J. Smith, Fred Sellars, Harry Ward, and Miss Winnie Horrocks.

Following the official reports an entertaining musical and novelty programme was staged. Thomas Wilkinson presided at this portion of the programme. The Beaver Club Singers appeared with "Comrades," "Song of Hope," and gems from "The Desert Song." A Spanish interlude was given by Miss Enid Cole and Harry Hutchinson, Newell Spratt, Miss Irene Williams and Miss K. Burd of The Beaver Club players, appeared in a short play entitled "Costume de Rigeur." Hung Wun, the wizard, in the person of Ernest Crockford, amazed the gathering with clever tricks. "The Meistersingers," a newly-formed male choir, eight of whose members are employed by the Hudson's Bay Company, gave a short recital. Frederick King conducted. Comedy was supplied by Don Fish, George McAdams, Frank Gibson, Harry Ward, and Benny McMillan. Cyril Ward led community singing with W. H. Davis and Miss Grace Allen at the piano. A piano accordion solo was given by Pat Campbell.

A. J. Watson Gives Encouraging Message and Receives Honor

"Our company is continually looking for young people to become the heads of the organization. It is up to you to prepare yourselves for these opportunities. Don't become discouraged and impatient. The future is bright. Remember, success isn't handed out on a silver plate. It has to be earned."

This encouraging message was given to 400 employees of the local store of the Hudson's Bay Company at the annual staff banquet tendered by the company to its employees, held yesterday evening, by A. J. Watson, local manager of the company. He thanked the employees for their attention to business during the last year and told them how pleased were the managers of other Canadian stores, when they were here early this month, with the general operation of the Victoria store, and the appearance of the staff. He read a letter from P. A. Chester, general manager of Hudson's Bay Company stores in Canada, in which he thanked the members of The Beaver Club for their excellent entertainment when the managers were in Victoria.

MANY OPPORTUNITIES

"Many of our employees, particularly the younger people," Mr. Watson said, "are becoming discouraged at present conditions. I want to tell them not to be discouraged. Promotion within the ranks of the company is bound to come. There are all kinds of opportunities for the young men and the young women in our service who are willing to work. There were many promotions made in 1933 and all were within the company ranks.

"The last year proved a very difficult one," Mr. Watson continued. "We are hoping 1934 will be much better. People now have greater confidence in the future, and while they may not have much more money, they are spending more freely. I believe our lumber and mining industries will help us all this year."

RECEIVES GIFT

Following his address Mr. Watson was honored by the employees when A. S. Woollard, advertising manager, presented him with a smart traveling case and offered to him the thanks of the Beaver Club members for his good work as president during the last ten years. Mr. Watson's leadership had been splendid, Mr. Woollard stated, and in making the presentation the members just wanted to show their appreciation for their chief's fine work.

J. S. Horne, vice-president of the club, was also honored when, on behalf of the members, Charles Banner, credit manager, presented him with a handsome pencil, and voiced appreciation of his untiring labors on behalf of the club. The employees joined in "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and three rousing cheers for Mr. Watson and Mr. Horne, after which they thanked the members of the staff for their gifts.

Guests of honor at yesterday's banquet were Charles H. French, G. R. Robson, Walter Powles and Chris Harding, all veteran employees of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Mrs. Alex Mathieson of Garfield headed the pioneers' "roll call" — the oldest pioneer present. She came to Alberta in 1869.

WHEAT PRIZE AT SEED FAIR

Cup For Best Exhibit at the Crystal Garden Next Month

The B.C. Department of Agriculture has been investigating the possibilities of producing in the interior of B.C. the type of wheat required for the manufacture of macaroni in its various forms.

It has learned that considerable quantities of special types of wheat are used in the manufacture of macaroni in this province. The Durum types of wheat apparently are the most desired and the varieties which would appear to be suitable for this purpose are "Kubanka" and "Arnautka."

Already one of the firms manufacturing macaroni in the province has displayed considerable interest in the matter and has offered a cup for the best exhibit of "Durum" wheat at the B.C. Seed Fair, which will be held at the Crystal Garden, Victoria, February 28 to March 3 next.

Club Entertained With Word-picture of Orient

Mrs. T. Harry Johns Gives Delightful Talk to Women's Canadian Club

Sharp Contrast Between Ancient and Modern Civilizations Is Sketched

While modestly claiming that her impressions must be looked upon as of only the most superficial character, such as are acquired by the tourist, as distinct from the knowledge gained by a deep and intimate study of the Orient, Mrs. T. Harry Johns succeeded in presenting before the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon a vivid picture of China and Japan in her intensely interesting talk on her trip to the Orient last summer.

Taking her audience of nearly 400 women on a "conducted tour," she skilfully sketched the color and teeming life of the East, the indescribable filth side by side with priceless treasures of great antiquity, the juxtaposition of the old and the new, showing the impingement of modern progress on the palimpsest of an age-old and conservative civilization.

OLD VS. NEW

Mrs. Johns was impressed by the great contrast between the old and the new in the Orient, the east and the west, and pointed out that it was essential to consider everything against the background of an ancient civilization. This impression of the close relationship of the old and the new first struck her in Manila, where dilapidated huts were side by side with magnificent homes, and ancient methods of transportation, such as a team of water-buffalo, side by side with the modern motor cars.

Other phases of life in the Philippines, such as the primitive butcher's shop, "whose only overhead seems to be the sky," and the native washerwomen who stand knee-deep in the streams and beat their linen against the stones, then hang them over a picket-fence, were described.

HUMAN BEASTS OF BURDEN

Hongkong and its many charms, Canton and its teeming native city, with its river covered with sampans and junks on which the women, as usual in the Orient, were doing the heaviest work, were touched upon. In Canton, Mrs. Johns was shocked to see women hitched in teams as beasts of burden.

She gave a graphic description of "The City of the Dead" in Canton, with its immense sarcophagus containing the coffins of Chinese awaiting interment "in the right place and at the right time." Bodies are brought here from all parts of the world, and as payment is exacted for as long as they remain there pending burial, wealthy men are apt to lie there for years before being interred, she commented.

INDESCRIBABLE FILTH

Shanghai, with its excellent paved roads is like any other northern city as far as its international quarter is concerned, but the native city is indescribably filthy, and crowded to unbelievable proportions. The bridges in China are built zigzag to combat evil spirits, who are allegedly unable to go "except" in a straight line, she said.

Japan has just as much dirt and filth, but it is not so apparent as in China, asserted Mrs. Johns. She spoke of the tremendous influence of the Shogunate, under whose rule Japan had retained its ancient ideas and marvelled at the very great strides made along modern lines in the last seventy-five years.

FESTIVAL OF LANTERNS

But now many of the old customs and festivals are being revived. The speaker described the festival of lanterns at Nagasaki, a three-day festival. On the first day the spirits of the dead are supposed to return to earth, so the Japanese place lanterns at the shrines in the hills and in their homes to light the returning spirits on their way. On the third day the lighted lanterns are placed on barges and sent out to sea to light the spirits back to the Great Beyond.

Mrs. Johns told of some amusing experiences while shopping, and humorously remarked that with a knowledge of the native language for "How much," she felt fully equipped for foreign travel.

WOMEN COALING

Coaling operations at Nagasaki, conducted by women, were described. So efficient and quick were the women that it is claimed that they can coal ship faster than it can be done by the most modern machinery.

Kyoto, the seat of culture and the old capital of Japan with its priceless treasures and its two old palaces, impressed the speaker. Nara, another ancient city, with its shrines and wonderful temple bells and bronze lamps, where the visitors saw one of the temple ritual dances by girls, was alluded to.

A visit to a leper colony, where thousands of victims of the revolting disease live with their families, was recalled by Mrs. Johns. She paid tribute to the heroism of the two English women who are in sole charge of the colony.

All through Japan are sulphur springs in which the halt, maimed and blind pass in and out indiscriminately, the speaker noted.

TECHNIQUE OF BATHING

Nikko, another beautiful old Japanese city, with its adjacent waterfall where many suicides occur annually, was another point of interest. Here Mrs. Johns stayed at a Japanese inn, and she gave an interesting description of her sojourn there. The ceremony of bathing and its "technique" as described by the speaker created much amusement.

Nature has been very lavish in Japan, said Mrs. Johns, describing the scenic beauties of the country. She sketched the charms of Tokio, with its modern department stores, its wonderful old temples, its tea-houses, its old "No" dances and classical dramas, while, across the street, the latest Hollywood film provides a striking example of the ancient and modern in Japan. A detailed description was given of a visit to the native theatre, and the audience was told of the impressive Meiji memorial park, with its stadium capable of seating 65,000 people, and its beautiful shrine.

In conclusion Mrs. Johns alluded to Fujiyama, "the supreme altar of the Sun," and the great part it plays in the philosophy of the people of Japan.

Mrs. G. D. Christie expressed the club's thanks to Mrs. Johns for her able and interesting address.

The soloist, Miss Gladys Marchant, ably accompanied at the piano by Mrs. G. Green, gave much pleasure with her two numbers.

NEW R.A. ELECTED

London, Jan. 24 (Canadian Press)—The Royal Academy to-day had elected to its membership S. Jam Lamorna Birch, noted painter in oil and water color, whose pictures are hung in many galleries of the United Kingdom, the Dominions and the United States, including the Toronto Art Gallery.

Birch's election fills a vacancy caused by the death of Anning Bell, painter, modeler and designer of stained glass.

DANGER SEASON!

FIGHT COLDS THIS SAFE PROVED WAY

IF your child has a cold—don't experiment! These are days when colds so often lead to grippe and pneumonia.

Play safe—follow the treatment that millions and millions of mothers have proved is best—use Vicks VapoRub.

This famous standby brings quicker, surer relief because of its famous poultice-vapor action. Through the skin, it "draws out" soreness and tightness. At the same time, its soothing medicated vapors are carried with every breath direct to irritated air-passages. All night long, Vicks VapoRub acts to relieve the cold—and safely! Being used externally, it avoids the risks of constant dosing—which so often upsets children's delicate digestions.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Nearly every mother in the land is eagerly searching for ways and means to serve meals that will save money without sacrificing nourishment and deliciousness. Perhaps these recipes will help solve the problem because they are for dishes that look attractive and taste delicious, yet cost amazingly little.

BRAISED BEEF

One and one-half to two pounds round steak, ¼ cup diced carrot, ¼ cup diced turnip, 1 onion, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon white pepper, 2 tablespoons flour.

Trim rim of fat from steak and try out in frying pan. Cut steak in pieces for serving and roll each piece in flour. Brown quickly in hot fat. Put vegetables into a casserole or deep baking dish and add meat. Rinse frying pan with two cups boiling water and pour over meat and vegetables. Season with salt and pepper, cover closely and bake three to four hours in a slow oven, 275 degree F. Keep below the boiling point during the baking. Make a gravy with the liquid in the baking dish. Serve with mashed potatoes, buttered beets, head lettuce with French dressing to which chili sauce has been added and old-fashioned bread pudding with liquid sauce.

OLD-FASHIONED BREAD PUDDING

The pudding can be baked at the same time the meat is baking.

Two cups stale bread crumbs, 2 cups milk, 1-3 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup seeded raisins, ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Scald milk, add bread crumbs and let stand ten minutes. Add remaining ingredients and turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake one hour or until firm in a moderate oven.

LIQUID SAUCE

One-half cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, few grains salt, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla and a few gratings of nutmeg or 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 cup boiling water.

If grated lemon rind is used add to sugar and cornstarch which have been thoroughly mixed. Add salt. Add water slowly, stirring constantly. Cook and stir over flame for five minutes. Cook over boiling water for fifteen minutes. Remove from heat and add butter and vanilla or lemon juice. Pour into a pitcher to serve.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast — Grape juice, cereal, cream, browned salt pork with milk gravy, cornbread, milk, coffee.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home
No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a 16 oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, used for generations for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded. (Advt.)

Picturesque Ritual At Installation of Officers

Many Spectators at Miriam Temple, Daughters of the Nile, Ceremony

Supreme Queen Maybelle Boone Officiates; Ball Follows Formal Programme

With impressive ritualistic ceremonial and in the presence of a large and interested gathering of spectators, Her Majesty Mabelle Boone, Supreme Queen of the Supreme Queen of the Supreme Supreme Chapter Daughters of the Nile, yesterday evening installed the officers of Miriam Temple No. 2, at the Shrine Auditorium. Assisting in the ceremony were Past Supreme Queen and founder Mabel Krows of Seattle, Past Supreme Queen and founder Levella K. West, of Seattle, who acted as chaplain, and Past Supreme Queen Nellie Brown of Miriam Temple, who acted as Marshal.

Against the eastern decorations of the auditorium, the Oriental rugs, the altar and officers' "chairs," the standard lamps and lighted candles, and the profusion of spring flowers which formed a setting for the installation the ceremony gained added picturesqueness, the headdresses of the officers heightening the Oriental effect.

THE NEW OFFICERS

In the absence through illness of the retiring Queen Edna Clark, her mother, Mrs. Walter Luney, Past Queen, presided in the early part of the ceremony, pending the formal installation of the new Queen, Ada M. Brown.

Ladies in waiting: Sadie Hood, Princess Nydia; Violet McIlvride, Princess Zuleika; Jennie Lillie, Princess Zenobia; Janet Dickson, Princess Zora; Nellie Davis, Princess Zuleima; Hazel Nicol and Eileen Davis, attendants; Florrie Phillips, standard bearer; Mabel Birnie and Pearson Stott, escorts.

In addition to the Supreme officers present were Past Queens Katherine Hawkins, Alice Humphries, Margaret Morrison, Lesley Grant, and M. Jane Handley. Following the installation of the Queen, Mrs. Luney presented her with a beautiful bouquet, flowers being also presented to the Supreme Queen and the other Supreme officers and to the past queens.

SUPREME QUEEN'S ADDRESS

Supreme Queen Maybelle Boone addressed the gathering, speaking of the significance of the ritualistic ceremonies. She explained the aims and functions of the organization and its relation to the Mystic Shrine, and told of its work in serving the little crippled children who are undergoing treatment in the various Shrine hospitals.

In this connection she spoke in high praise of the work of the Oasis Temple in Montreal and Miriam Temple in Victoria along these lines. The Supreme Queen then extended her congratulations to the newly-elected queen and officers of Miriam Temple.

PRESENTATION MADE

Princess Chaplain M. Jane Handley in responding expressed the hope that in her onward journey the Supreme Queen would carry with her pleasant memories of her official visit to Miriam Temple, and presented her with a handsome pair of vases on behalf of the officers of the local temple.

Illustrious Potentate D. B. Martyn of Gizeh Temple congratulated the members of Miriam Temple upon the beauty and dignity of the installation ceremonies. He briefly traced the functions of the Mystic Shrine as the "playground of Masonry," and its more serious project—that of establishing and maintaining hospitals for crippled children. In this connection he spoke of the value of the work undertaken by the Daughters of the Nile.

Mrs. S. M. Morton very effectively sang two solos, accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Morton Gough. Beverley Armstrong and Dorothy Williams danced a tap dance with much grace, and were presented by Past Queen F. Luney with bouquets of daffodils; Princess Eileen Davis gave an amusing recitation, which was encored.

MANY GUESTS

Following the programme dancing was enjoyed. In addition to the officers and members of Miriam Temple, others present included:

Vancouver Man Inherits Estate

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 24.—Ernest Kellett Long, fifty-eight, who came to British Columbia more than thirty years ago, will return to England to claim a Norfolk estate inherited from his bachelor uncle, Fortescue Kellett Long.

Long came to Canada in 1890. After five years on a Saskatchewan farm he came to British Columbia and mined for a time near Atlin. Later he came to Vancouver, where he has lived for the last twenty-five years.

The estate he inherits is Dunstan Hall, four miles from Norwich in Norfolk. It includes 3,555 acres of farm land and £32,000.

TO ENTERTAIN AGED INMATES

There was a very good attendance of members at the meeting held by the Women of the Moose, Victoria Chapter No. 25 on Monday evening at the hall, corner of View and Blanshard Streets, with Sr. Regent Mary Pearce presiding.

The sick matron, Mrs. Alice Hatcher, reported that Mrs. Emily Dallimore of Happy Valley, who was hit in the leg by a strange bullet, was doing as well as expected; also that Mrs. Jane Ostler's daughter had met with an accident and was at the Jubilee Hospital. A cordial welcome was extended to Mrs. Harris, a visitor from the Vancouver Chapter No. 130. On account of being absent from the city for the next several months, Mrs. Mary Morry's resignation as treasurer was accepted with regret and Mrs. Elizabeth Jane was elected and duly installed in the office by Mrs. Alice Hatcher as grand installing officer, and Miss Freda Spouse as grand guide. The social convener, Mrs. Cassie Spouse, gave a report of the card party recently held at the home of Mrs. T. Alexander, a vote of thanks being extended to her and also Mrs. Alexander.

A letter was received from Maple Leaf Legion No. 53 inviting the chapter to join with them on a visit to the inmates of the Aged and Infirm Men's Home on Friday evening, January 26. A good programme will be presented and as many as possible are asked to attend to try and bring a bit of happiness to the aged. Chapter members, please bring refreshments, but no pies or pastries. Mrs. Alice Hatcher proposed that a Valentine tea be held next month. This will be held Monday afternoon, February 12, from 3 to 5 o'clock. Miss Barbara Allan and Miss Freda Spouse will be in charge of the programme. Members wishing to make up a table are requested to get in touch with the recorder, Mrs. Helen Parker.

This concluded the meeting, the chapter to meet again on Monday, February 12 at 8 p.m. Following the meeting a joint social with Maple Leaf Legion No. 53 was greatly enjoyed. B. Knott was chairman; songs were given by Mr. G. Allan; sketch of a family conference on New Year resolutions was given by Mrs. Helen Allan, Ms. Carrie Drysdale, Miss Barbara Allan and Miss Dotcina Guelpa.

This was followed by community singing and recitations by T. Spouse, B. Knott and Mrs. Cassie Spouse, W. Kettle giving a definition of a "wife," causing much laughter. With Mrs Glover accompanying, Mrs. Mary Robertson sang a song, and also recited "Dangerous Dan McGrew."

After the programme all enjoyed a sit-down supper served by Mrs. Cassie Spouse, Mrs. Evelyn Clark and Mrs. Tryphena Alexander, G. Allan and B. Knott. This brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

KOL, KVI, KSL—5.30.

KOMO—6.

The nonsensical inventors, Stoopenagle and Budd, will contribute to the realm of hilarity, if not to that of science, in their broadcast with Jacques Renard's orchestra and Vera Van. In addition to the usual burlesques, the colonels are promising a real drama. KOL, KVI, KSL—6.15.

John McCormack will take an arrangement of Handel's "The Poor Irish Lad" as his opening solo, and will follow it with a series of songs, including Schumann's "The Soldier," "Oh That We Two Were Maying," by Nevin; "The Spanish Lady," by Hughes; "Candlelight," by Cadman, and "Bantry Bay," by Molloy. KOMO—6.30.

A varied half-hour ranging from presentations of unique comic novelties to semi-classic choral numbers will be presented by Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians. Following the soothing strains of "Sleep," the Waring signature, the gang will break into one of its distinctive college medleys. Poley "Frog-voice" McClintock, Johnny "Seat-singer" Davis, the pretty Lane Sisters, cute little Babs Ryan, Tom Waring, Stuart Churchill and others will contribute specialties. KOL, KVI, KSL—7.

"The Third Alarm," the story of three generations of firemen, two of whom became inmates of Sing Sing, will be told by Warden Lewis E. Lawes in the "20,000 Years in Sing Sing" drama. KOMO—8.15.

Sea chanties and all the typical music of the sailor will be brought on to the air lanes by the Canadian Radio Commission programme, "O'er the Billowy Sea," from Saskatoon. CRCV—9.15.

A fast and furious half-hour revue with Fred Allen and Company and an all-star cast of singing artists will feature Portland Hoffa, Jack Smart, Mary McCoy, Scrappy Lambert and his male quartette and a feminine trio. KOMO—9.30.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

CONSTIPATION USUALLY CORRECTED BY DIET

Constipation needs to be dealt with, not through laxatives, but through the diet, through improvement in the body's nutrition, and through some improvement in the habits which make for regularity. True constipation means not so much a missed movement as a hard, dry stool which is difficult to pass.

DOES NOTHING

The following letter is an excellent illustration of the belief that irregular bowel evacuations mean constipation. Mrs. P. M. asks: "Won't you please write something in your column in reference to the following? The mother of a five and one-half months old baby, who seems to be getting along very nicely with the exception of constipation, admits that she takes this matter very lightly. For the past two months the baby has had a movement only every third day. She says that if the child had a convulsion she would not know what to do, yet she does nothing about the constipation.

"The baby gets orange, prune and tomato juice. He has milk of magnesia daily. Would not this tend to give him cramps? I notice he often wakens crying as if with a sharp pain. He had two teeth at three months, and his mother says his gums are full of teeth".

TAKE IT LIGHTLY

If the baby is doing well in all other ways, is happy, up to weight, sleeping well, has bright eyes and good firm flesh, by all means take the so-called constipation lightly.

Any laxative is certain to cause some cramping. Perhaps if this five and one-half months old baby had cereal, and sieved vegetables and some milk in addition to the breast milk, the residue in the intestines would be sufficient to stimulate a daily movement.

Convulsions have no direct relation to constipation. They result from a poor diet, lack of cod liver oil which disturbs the body's calcium balance and upsets the nervous system, in aggravated cases, to the point of convulsions. Perhaps this mother would like my leaflet, "Feeding from Two to Twelve Months," so as to keep the diet right. The rate of baby's gain and a well balanced diet are the chief points for consideration. A regular movement every second or third day is not constipation.

How Oxford Man Started in Theatre

New York, Jan. 24.—Philip Merrivale, a swashbuckling principal in the Theatre Guild's production of "Mary of Scotland," resents the report about town that after he left Oxford he broke into theatricals by carrying a spear in a revival of the Greek tragedy "Orestes." Mr. Merryvale was not a spear-carrier, but a palm-waver. A palm-waver, he points out, must have technique. His career would be over if he happened to tickle the star on the nose with a frond and make her sneeze.

"Mr. Newman could hardly believe his own test!"

He doubted. He tried it. He didn't understand how it could work like this:

START SMOOTH FULL POWER

When ordinary winter gas does this:

START STILL BUCKING STILL REQUIRING CHOKE

Mr. M. Newman, of Vancouver, now says:

"It's certainly great to get so much power out of a cold motor. This new Thermalized gas is a miracle in my Pontiac."

If you've doubted, do as Mr. Newman did. See for yourself.

WHAT THERMALIZING★ DOES TO A WINTER GASOLINE

Makes it more concentrated, more powerful in a cold motor.
Reduces the tendency to sputter and backfire in chilly weather.
Cuts in half the usual choking period.
Prevents dangerous dilution of crankcase oil.
Increases winter mileage, saves you money.

★THERMALIZED is the name given Shell's combination of processes by which gasoline is made to deliver full power in a cold engine. Originally produced under terrific heat, Super Shell is redistilled, made even more concentrated. Every gallon for your community is Thermalized for local temperatures.

CHAPTER XXXVII

Dudley hurried Dona from the cave. He was convinced that Ball was still using his hiding place and he suddenly wanted to be away before the cowboy returned. Dudley had not missed any of the tales told around camp regarding the prowess and temper of the killer.

Dona rode silently. She let Dudley lead the way down the ridge to the Pass Creek trail. A turmoil of doubt and fear was tugging at her heart. She was afraid of what was to come. Had Stan Ball's promises to her been just a fine flourish, a touch that he had added because it suited his reckless nature? Was he still bent on breaking up the work at Three Rivers? Swergin might yet prove to be right.

Her mind went back over the past few days of adventure. She remembered the little Spanish girl and the one glove. She went over the terrible scene in the little meadow when her father had been shot. Step by step she placed the evidence against the man she had aided, then she added the fact that he had voluntarily admitted committing all of the crimes. Dona shuddered and gave the roan a jerk. She was a little fool—there seemed no way to avoid admitting it.

The roan halted suddenly behind Dudley's horse. Dona came out of her moody trance and looked around. They were not on the Pass Creek trail. Tall granite walls frowned down on them and uncut timber towered above.

"I seem to have taken the wrong trail," Dudley called back with an irritated grin. "I let this dumb horse do all the picking and he must be lost."

Dona smiled in spite of herself. Dudley had been riding on Folly Mountain every day for ten days and now he had lost a plain trail.

"I'll take you out," she smiled. "The roan is not such a dummy as your horse."

She headed at once for a high point that overlooked the surrounding slope. Dudley following her willingly. From the high vantage point they could see into the valley at their feet. Dona sat in her saddle and made a careful check of what lay below them. She suddenly ceased to be interested in the lost trail.

Undoubtedly they were looking into Pass Creek valley, but what interested her was what she saw far down in the canyon. A road wound out from the foot of the mountain, a new road. While they watched, two trucks loaded with lumber slid down the loop of road they could see.

"Know where we are?" Dudley asked impatiently.

"That is Pass Creek below." Dona pointed with her quirt.

"Let's get out of here and back to camp." Dudley was very evidently in a hurry to get on a familiar trail again.

"Don't worry. I can take you right out," Dona answered absently. She was intensely interested in the scene below.

"We better move on," said Dudley, who was not interested in new roads. He wanted to get into camp and clean up.

Dona sensed a mystery; something told her that down in that valley lay the solution of the whole trouble on Folly Mountain. She was sure her father did not know about the operations on the far side of the ridge.

"Let's ride down to where those men are working," she said, smiling.

Dudley looked down into the canyon and frowned. "No sense in hiking clear down there if you know where the trail is," he said. "It would take us hours to climb out again."

Dona realized that Dudley was right. With Dudley along there would be little use in riding down into the canyon. He was still a novice and very much a tenderfoot. His freedom of movement while Ball was active must have been allowed by the cowboy. Likely, Stan Ball figured him harmless. Dona was beginning to suspect that Dudley had never gotten far off marked trails.

She headed the roan back along the mountain and soon they struck the Pass Creek trail where it crossed the divide and dropped down into the valley they had been examining. Dudley had taken the wrong direction upon coming down from the cave.

"This is the trail we came up over," Dudley called up to her. There was relief and eagerness in his voice.

Dona smiled back at him and set the roan at a slow trot. She had many things on her mind, while Dudley was only concerned in getting back to camp and taking a bath after a hard ride.

Dudley finally pulled up beside her and began to set the pace. He cantered on ahead and left her to trail in at his heels. Dona was willing to do this as she wanted time to lay a few plans herself. She intended to find out about the work in Pass Creek. The question to be decided was whether or not she should demand an explanation from Swergin or make an investigation first.

Dona rode up to the corral and slid from her horse. Malloy was there to take the roan but she did not see Dudley. Very likely, thought she, he was under a shower already.

Asper was sitting out on the porch when she ran up the steps. Dudley was standing beside him.

"You're slow," Dudley greeted her. He had lingered a moment for a word before changing clothes.

Asper frowned at his son-in-law. He could not see anything favorable in such actions as Dudley displayed. In his honeymoon days he would have waited for his bride and walked up from the corrals with her.

Dona laughed, a rippling laugh. Dudley was so impossible that he was amusing. "Run along and get under your shower," she said.

Dudley patted her hand and dashed off.

* * *

"Where have you been to-day?" Asper asked.

"Didn't Dud tell you?" Dona wondered how much Dudley had said.

Asper shook his head. "Dudley never sees anything. Ball could have met him and talked to him. Likely he did."

Dona smiled in agreement as she remembered how Dudley had missed the significance of the trucks and the new road.

"How far south do the Delo contracts run?" Dona asked suddenly.

"To the top of Pass Creek divide," he replied.

Asper's expression suddenly changed; he seemed to want to shift the conversation.

"So you rode a long way," he continued. "Better stay out of the Pass Creek district. I'm not so sure Ball has left or, if he has gone, that he won't come back."

"If he comes back I hope they get him," she said quietly.

Asper smiled grimly. "If Stan Ball broke his little promise to you, you'd be glad to have him hanged?" he said.

Dona flushed and remained silent.

"You women can see a lot in any hound that has the pack against him," continued Asper as he patted her arm. "I've given orders that if Ball returns and is caught he is to be brought in and taken to the county seat for trial."

"And you think the men will do that?" Dona shook her head as she remembered the mob she and Ball had faced together.

"Swergin knows he is through so far as I am concerned if he lets his men get out of hand." Asper spoke in his business manner.

Dona patted his hand. She knew he had done this for her. Kissing him on the cheek, she ran to her room.

Dona came out after a refreshing bath bright as a mountain flower. She looked about for Dudley but he was not waiting. A little frown of impatience puckered her soft lips. "Where's Dud?" she called to Asper.

"Went galloping down the hill about fifteen minutes ago," Asper answered squirly.

Dona did not say any more. She knew her father was very much displeased with the way Dudley acted and she did not want to add to his displeasure. Asper did not know just the position Dudley was in and could not be expected to understand his lack of attention.

Dona strolled out into the grove behind the office building. She began planning. She would not talk to Swergin but would investigate the workings on Pass Creek herself. Her father's eagerness not to discuss that district made her afraid of what she would find. But she had to know the truth.

MALAHAT BOARD RETURNS MUDGE

Special to The Times

Shawnigan Lake, Jan. 24.—The Malahat Board of Trade held its annual meeting in the S.L.A.A. Hall last Friday. William Mudge, president, gave a comprehensive report of the activities of the board for the year, which showed much useful work accomplished. Secretary S. J. Heald reported a gain of eight members during the year and the financial statement showed a balanced budget. Mr. Mudge was re-elected president.

H. E. Hawking was elected vice-president and S. J. Heald was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

A vote of thanks was given last year's officers for their work during a difficult year.

Uncle Wiggily and the Bugs' Sled

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

"Are you having a good time, my Squigglers?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Very nice," buzzed the Seven Spot Bug.

"Quite jolly, in fact," said the Six Spot Bug. "But could you go a little slower, Mr. Longears, if you please?"

"You can't exactly go slow or fast when you're coasting," explained Uncle Wiggily. "You have to go the way your sled goes. Of course you can make yourself go a bit slower by dragging your paws on the ground, but that wears out your shoes too fast."

"Goodness knows shoes wear out fast enough as it is," said the Seven Spot Bug. "And each of us bugs with six legs! My, it would never do for us to drag our feet. I guess we'll just have to coast fast."

"I'll make you a sled."

"I suppose so," said the Six Spot Bug. "I know I can't afford to buy another set of shoes this winter."

"Don't worry," begged the rabbit gentleman. "I won't go too fast for you."

But the two Squigglers, sitting behind Uncle Wiggily on his sled, held tightly to the bunny, to each other and to the sled. It was the first time they had ever gone coasting and they were not used to sliding down a snowy hill so fast. Uncle Wiggily had come out all alone to have coasting fun and had met the Squigglers. They had no sled of their own, so the bunny gentleman kindly took them down on his.

"How do you like it now?" asked Mr. Longears, when the sled was halfway down the hill. There was no answer from the Bugs.

"I say, how do you like it?" asked the rabbit again.

Still no answer.

"It cannot be that they are too bashful to answer me," thought the rabbit gentleman. "Perhaps they don't hear me with the way the wind rushes past their ears. I'll ask again."

"How do you like it, my squigglers?"

Still no answer from the Bugs neither from the Seven Spot one nor from the Six Spot one.

"This is getting mysterious," said Uncle Wiggily. "I wonder what can have happened? They must have heard my shout."

He twisted his neck and looked around and to his surprise he saw no Bugs at all. Not the Seven Spot one or the Six Spot one.

"Oh, dear!" cried Uncle Wiggily, "they must have bounced off my sled. Poor Squigglers! They have fallen off in the snow!"

Never minding about wearing out his shoes, Uncle Wiggily dragged his two paws on the snowy ground like a brake and the sled slowly came to a stop. Then the bunny jumped off and started back up the hill, looking on the way for the Squiggle Bugs.

At first he could not find them for they were very tiny, though they were such a bright red color. Once Mr. Longears thought he saw the two little chaps in a hole in a snow drift. But it was only a piece of red paper some animal boy or girl had pulled off a lollypop.

"Squigglers, where are you?" loudly called the rabbit and then two tiny voices answered:

"Here we are!"

Following the sound of the voices Uncle Wiggily saw the Six Spot chap and the Seven Spot chap down in a little pile of snow. The sled had coasted so fast that the Squigglers were joggled off.

"Dear me! This is too bad!" said Uncle Wiggily. "But get in my pocket. I will walk with you to the top of the hill and we'll try another coast."

"Oh, no!" said Seven Spot. "Never again! It's too dangerous."

"And yet, I should dearly love another coast," said Six Spot. "Only we are too little to sit behind you on your big sled, Uncle Wiggily."

"And if you sit in front," spoke the rabbit, "the wind will be so strong it will blow you away. Dear me, how can you coast?"

"If we had a sled of our own, a tiny one just our size, I think it would be all right," spoke Seven Spot.

"But where can such a tiny sled be found?" asked Six Spot.

"It will not be easy," said Uncle Wiggily, "but I'll try to buy you one." However, when he went to the stores not a sled small enough for the Squiggle Bugs could be bought. The smallest one was far too large. Then Mr. Longears said:

"I know what I can do. I'll make you a sled out of a walnut shell, my Squigglers!" This he did, taking the meat out of a walnut shell and fastening on it runners made of toothpicks. And in this tiny sled the Seven Spot and the Six Spot Squigglers coasted down hill by themselves and had lots of fun. And if the tea kettle doesn't boil eggs in the coffee pot and make them look like chocolate candy, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's snow pudding.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

THURSDAY, JANUARY 25, 1934

Adverse aspects conflict with kindly planetary influences to-day, according to astrology. It is a time to walk the straight and narrow path.

The morning is a favorable time to interview persons in positions of authority. Those who seek appointments of any sort may be lucky.

There is a sign read as presaging access of power on the part of men in high place. The seers prophesy a tightening of the reins of government that will prove beneficial.

The stars presage agitation for economy in public expenditures and many controversies regarding the administration of government projects.

This is an auspicious day for signing contracts and seems to foreshadow the carrying on of many enterprises that benefit the nation.

The planetary government is unfavorable for beginning any sort of project and there may be a sense of anxiety because of necessary delays.

The direction of the stars affects individuals as well as groups of men and women. Housekeepers may be disturbed by postponement of necessary repairs and lack of means to carry out domestic plans.

Again astrologers foretell for the future a return to a measured prosperity. Extremes of wealth and poverty are to be prevented, if the stars are rightly read.

The evening of this day is subject to the sinister influence of Neptune. It will be wise to be careful about all stimulating beverages.

Secret propaganda that is gradually publicized will attract much attention because of attacks on public men and public policies, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of good fortune. There is special success for university students.

Children born on this day probably will be keen of mind and active of body. The subjects of this sign of Aquarius may have extraordinary gifts.

Robert Burns, famous Scottish poet, was born on this day, 1759. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include George Edward Pickett, 1825, Civil War general, and Anna Ivanovna, 1693, Empress of Russia.

18 Personal

A HEADACHE IS A MESSAGE FROM THE south colony saying: "Things are not just right; trouble is brewing." Don't give it a shut-off pill. Seek to find the disturber. Usually it's found in the stomach, and if not removed, will send its poisonous fangs into its neighbors—then war; and possibly a crippled friend (stomach). A good friend is not obtained every day. Our coarse whole wheat bread (free from molasses, sugar or white flour) will strengthen its friendship, being easily assimilated. Our Roman Meal bread, muffins and bran muffins also help. Call at our store daily and see the good line of quality foods that await you. Golden Loaf Bakery, 711 Fort St.

BUDDY WHITE CASE DELAYED

Appeal Hearing Delayed For Week; Man Who Bit Off Finger Fails

Hearing of the appeal of Buddy White, negro, sentenced to one year for wounding Alfred Alexander, Victoria negro, at Hastings Park, Vancouver last year, was postponed for a week in the Court of Appeal yesterday.

White, who is at liberty on bail, has retained Stuart Henderson to fight the appeal and the delay was necessary to secure appeal books and other data on the case.

The court yesterday dismissed the appeal of Ellis Andy, Finnish miner, of Hope, B.C., against conviction and sentence of two and one-half years on a charge of assault with actual bodily harm. Andy was one of five prisoners who made personal appearances before the court. He was alleged to have bitten the first joint off the index finger of a man named Jones in a beer parlor fight.

The evidence was that Andy, in a drunken condition, annoyed patrons of the beer parlor and after refusing to leave the table where Jones and some friends were drinking, was pushed away by Jones's open hand. A fight ensued in which Jones lost the top of his left hand index finger. Andy was missing two front teeth.

In his appeal, through an interpreter, Andy claimed he had not been able to secure his witnesses for the trial to prove that Jones had started the fight. He alleged Jones had put his left hand into his (Andy's) mouth and then hit him on the jaw with his right, breaking the teeth and tearing the finger.

The justices found no evidence to substantiate this allegation.

Andy further stated he believed he had been "railroaded in for a long term because someone wanted to "jump his claim

Mr. Justice A. E. McPhillips pointed out that the man Jones was mutilated for life as a result of the encounter and the sentence was not too severe.

Appeals on both conviction and sentence were therefore dismissed.

MAY SUGGEST SERVICE TAX

Saanich Ratepayers Favor More Equitable Charge

A united protest against present improvement assessments in Saanich combined with suggestions for altering taxation methods by the institution of a service tax, is being considered by several ratepayers of the municipality for presentation to the Court of Revision of the Assessment Roll, which will sit in the municipal hall February 8, at 10 o'clock.

The move has been under way for some time and is of particular interest to the farmers. It was recently injected into the election campaign as an issue in Ward Three, where A. G. Lambrick was its chief advocate, dealing particularly with the necessity for a service tax, through which ratepayers would pay for services rendered.

MINISTER'S SUPPORT

This levy would decrease the burden upon the farmers, many of whom receive far less municipal service than residents of the inner wards, because they reside in the outlying districts. Such a charge was recently supported by Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, whose associations with the problems of New Westminster during his term as mayor, full acquainted him with the general problems of municipalities.

While the practicability of this charge in Saanich has not been fully investigated it has been indicated it may be dealt with in the report of the municipal commission which recently conducted an investigation into municipal taxation.

CONSIDER UNITED MOVE

Ward Three ratepayers are chiefly interested in this move, while Wards Two and Seven have also shown an interest in regard to lowering of improvement assessments. The stand on this question is that no allowance is made by the assessor for depreciation over a period of years and, since it is generally admitted this depreciation exists, it is felt some compensation should be forthcoming.

The Ward Three association will discuss these matters at a meeting this evening, while the Ward Two body will take them up at its next regular meeting. It is probable that a special meeting of the Ward Seven association will be held prior to the sitting of the Court of Revision, at which Mr. Lambrick will outline the position of the ratepayers and enlist the district's support in any appeals made to the court.

The members arranged a corporate communion service to be held on St. Andrew's Day in St. Paul's Church.

It was proposed that an invitation be extended to members of the diocesan board, asking them to hold their quarterly meeting in June on Salt Spring Island as guests of the island branch. The secretary was instructed to write to Lady Lake on the subject.

Tea was served at the conclusion of the meeting, hostesses being Mrs. A. J. Eaton and Mrs. S. P. Beech.

OPERA MUSIC FOR RECITAL

Fine Programme Planned For Male Voice Choir Recital Next Wednesday

On Wednesday, January 31, at the Shrine Auditorium, a male voice choir of eighteen voices will give its inaugural recital, commencing at 8.15 o'clock.

In addition to a number of part songs, there will be presented excerpts from the operas, including the Miserere scene, "Il Trovatore," in which Mrs. T. H. Johns, well-known soprano, sings the part of Leonora, and J. Walsh, tenor, that of the Troubadour. From the tuneful opera, "Robin Hood," amongst other items the ever popular song, "Brown October Ale," will be heard. Pierre Timp, baritone, taking the solo. With the beautiful "Legend of the Chimes," sung by F. Irvings, and the harmonized setting of "O Promise Me," the recital will be brought to a fitting climax.

Frank Rowley, baritone, will be heard in an Aria from Tannhauser, which leads into the beautiful Pilgrim's chorus sung by the choir. Pierre Timp and Llewellyn Jones will contribute a beautiful duet, "In This Solemn Hour," from the opera, "Forza del Destino."

Tickets for this recital are obtainable at all music stores.

Popular Group Coming Again

Of considerable interest to a large number of citizens is the welcome announcement of the return, on their way home, of the Scottish Musical Comedy Company, which will appear at the Empire Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, next week in an entirely new production, entitled "Tam O'Shanter," a two-act fantasy based upon the poems and letters of Robert Burns, arranged by John E. Daniels of Glasgow.

The production is devoid of plot or sustained narrative; it is purely fantastic. In the realm of imagination, Mr. Daniels has conceived and portrayed a gathering of some well-known Burns characters, who lived while he lived, and who for the purposes of the fantasy, live again. These incarnated characters are used as the instrument for a novel, entertaining, informative and delightful presentation of Burns's songs and poems, and the pronouncement of certain beliefs and principles culled from his correspondence. All of the songs are from Robert Burns. Perhaps the most outstanding achievement of this gifted group of Scottish players and singers is their perfect ensemble.

TSCHAIKOWSKY TO BE PLAYED

Although it is remarkable that Tschaikowsky constantly alternated between symphonic poem and symphony his progress in the latter form was fairly logical and continuous. Individually each symphony has its own definite character and color scheme and reflects the prevailing influence under which it is written. His orchestral suites count among his most popular works. They show off his orchestration more completely perhaps than any of his compositions.

The Casse-Noisette suite has all the charm and novelty of orchestration and shows that unusual ideas which have no pretension to sublimity may be made exceedingly fascinating by means of brilliant orchestration and piquant accessories. "Waltz of the Flowers" and the "Andante Cantabile" for strings, will be played by the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Allard de Ridder, on Monday, February 5, at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

THE SCREEN

KAY FRANCIS AT CAPITOL

Has Leading Role in Story of New York, Entitled "The House on 56th Street"

Kay Francis comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre to-day in her latest starring picture for Warner Bros., "The House on 56th Street," a colorful drama based on the novel by Joseph Santley.

Miss Francis plays the part of one of the most beautiful and most popular of Broadway butterfly chorus girls whose beauty and charm get her into trouble. The chaacterization is said to be the most dramatic role of her career, the romances and the tragedies in the life of this show girl giving Miss Francis the opportunity to run the gamut in emotional expression.

The story centres about the unusual incidents in a mansion on 56th Street, built by a millionaire New York clubman for his chorus girl bride. At the height of her happiness, the young wife is torn from husband and home and sent to prison on a charge of murdering a former lover though innocent. Later she returns to the same house, now a fashionable gambling house, as mistress of a blackjack game.

Three popular pictures of 1933 will be revived at the Capitol Theatre following the late performance of the current feature. Wednesday it will be George Arliss in "A Successful Calamity"; Thursday, George Arliss in "Voltaire"; Friday, the musical film, "42nd Street."

Empire to Show English Comedy

The latest thing in film stars is a pale green porcelain bath. This plays an important part in Thomas Bentley's "My Wife's [illegible]," coming to the Empire Theatre on Friday. Quite the latest thing in baths, it was groomed for stardom with all the newest chromium plated fittings and the last word in loofahs. A charming bathroom with hand-painted walls on which dolphins optimistically gambol was the setting for the scene. The studio engineers even laid on hot and cold water to the taps for the bath's great moment. It was called upon to overflow with steaming water, and so important was its role that two cameras recorded its action.

DOMINION THEATRE

The appearance together in a picture of Joan Crawford and Clark Gable is an unmistakable sign of screen entertainment above the ordinary run. The popular pair are again seen opposite each other in "Dancing Lady," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's filmization of the widely-read James Warner Bellah novel, which is the feature attraction to-day at the Dominion Theatre.

Miss Crawford, who in "Dancing Lady" starts out as a cheap burlesque chorine and ultimately ends up with her name in bright lights on Broadway, has a part which gives her every opportunity for dancing, singing and plenty of displays of emotional fireworks.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

The golden voice of Mary McCormic, noted prima donna of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, comes to the screen at last. Miss McCormic sings in the Janet Gaynor-Warner Baxter production for Fox, "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," now at the Playhouse Theatre.

Miss McCormic plays herself in the picture and as Mary McCormic, the singer, visiting the home of the "Adairs" in Ireland, is called upon to sing. It will be the first picture and sound recording—save for a recent screen test—in her career. It was Director Harry Lachman, a close friend of the singer, who induced her to appear in the film.

Greenland Film Here To-morrow

Fifteen thousand miles or more to film a motion picture!

That is the record "location trip" established by Universal's expedition into arctic Greenland to film the magnificent drama of the North, "S.O.S. Iceberg" which is at the Columbia Theatre to-morrow.

Starting from Hollywood, where Dr. Arnold Franck, noted outdoor picture producer and head of the expedition, conferred with Carl Laemmle, the expedition gathered strength in numbers in Berlin and finally sailed from Hamburg aboard the Ss. Borodino with thirty-eight members aboard. From Hamburg to Denmark and then on to the little known icebound continent, the expedition completed its unprecedented lengthy trek to secure the spectacular background for the outdoor drama.

SMALL PAYMENTS COMING IN WELL

While prepayment of taxes to the city appeared to be falling short of the total attained for the corresponding period last year, when a record was set, reports indicated many small property owners were availing themselves of the opportunity to meet their levies and enjoy the special rebate allowed for early payment.

Up to yesterday, the amount prepaid was $188,375, as compared with $233,599 for the corresponding period last year. In 1932, $197,369 had been brought in during the first twenty-three days of the year.

COMMEMORATE CLUB'S BIRTH

K. Ferguson and H. M. Diggon Speak to Kiwanians on Aims of Movement

With addresses by two former District Governors, Kenneth Ferguson and Harold M. Diggon, both charter members of the Victoria club, Kiwanians here commemorated the nineteenth anniversary of the founding of their movement in Detroit in 1915 at a social evening in Spencer's dining-room and lounge yesterday evening.

The idealism of Kiwanis was outlined to the members and their ladies by Mr. Diggon, who spoke of the real Kiwanian as one who had lived heartily and well, having dwelled in the hearts of his friends.

Need for fellowship, companionship and relaxation from the hectic battles of business had inspired the organization of the Kiwanis Club, he stated. The members had, with the aid of the movement, set up their own standards of citizenship and become conscious of their duty to the community. Through the Kiwanis clubs the country was benefitting, he said in conclusion.

HISTORY

In a short history on the national district and city organization of Kiwanis, Kenneth Ferguson spoke of the founding of the movement in Detroit nineteen years ago this month. The Victoria branch had been set up in 1920, he said.

Mr. Ferguson referred to the change made in the original motto "We Barter," to the present-day slogan: "We Build," showing how the latter implied greater community endeavor.

"The local club takes credit for having made real contributions to the people, and let us take this credit in the form of an incentive to do even greater work in the future," concluded Mr. Ferguson.

During the evening, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Johns sang a number of duets and solos. Mrs. John Gough was the accompanist.

The function was brought to a close with bridge.

CHANGE SOUGHT IN BOILER LAW

Claiming to represent 300 firms in the province, a delegation which waited on Acting Premier Wells Gray this morning asked for an amendment to the Boiler Inspection Act so that the inspection made by an insurance company should be accepted without an inspection by a government inspector, for which substantial fees had to be paid.

The delegation was headed by Col. W. F. Kemp and Harry J. Sullivan of Vancouver.

The delegation argued that many companies desired to insure themselves against boiler accidents. Before granting this insurance the insurance companies insisted upon an inspection, which was not essarily reliable because of the financial responsibility the insurance company assumed. There is already a law in Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick under which the inspection of an insurance company is accepted, the delegates pointed out.

PREPARE FOR FEDERAL VOTE

Luxton Division of Esquimalt Riding Liberal Association Chooses Officers

The first annual meeting of the Luxton division of the Esquimalt Riding Liberal Association was held at Luxton Hall yesterday evening. The meeting was well attended, and the crowd included many members from the distant parts of the district.

W. R. Walker, the president of the association, congratulated C. E. Whitney-Griffiths on the wonderful fight he put up at the recent provincial election. It would need close unity and continued energetic action on the part of all those supporting the Liberal cause in the riding to successfully overcome the opposition forces in the federal election, he said.

The speaker drew the attention of the meeting to the fact that, while the successful candidate, Mr. Pooley, was sunning himself in California, Mr. Whitney-Griffiths was carrying the burden of caring for the interests of the people, giving freely of his time and money to the public welfare, the great extent of this sacrifice being only fully understood by those most closely associated with him.

CONTINUED EFFORT

Mr. Whitney-Griffiths, in rising to thank the people of the Luxton division for their support, pointed out that this was the first time he had had an opportunity of doing so publicly. He was very glad to see so many present from the farther points of the district. Stress was laid by the speaker on the urgent need for continued effort in the Liberal cause, in view of the forthcoming federal election.

The following officers were elected for the year: President, W. R. Walker; vice-president, David Scott; secretary H. J. Sceats; treasurer, T. T. Pullan; district captains, Luxton, W. Geddes; Metchosin, C. H. Helgeson; Colwood, J. Robinson; Langford, C. Cotman; View Royal, J. Bates; East Sooke, H. E. Thornett.

HINDU LOSES APPEAL CASE

Court Upholds Conviction of Brema For Assault on Nama Here

On a three-two division, the Court of Appeal this morning dismissed the appeal of Brema, Hindu, against conviction for assaulting Nama, another Hindu, here last April, for which he was sentenced to one year.

Brema was the only one convicted of six accused Hindus who were alleged to have resented the attitude of Nama toward Taj Kor, a Hindu widow, who came from the same village in India as they did. Nama claimed he was set upon and nearly killed by six Hindus.

Mr. Justice A. E. McPhillips and Mr. Justice W. G. McQuarrie would have allowed the appeal, which was conducted by Stuart Henderson, with Gordon Cameron appearing for the crown. They took into account the submission of Mr. Henderson that the crown, in charging the six men jointly, had set up a case of "common design" and that this had fallen down when the five were acquitted, so the sixth man, Brema, should also have gone free. The only distinction between his case and that of the others appeared to be the finding of human bloodstains on his right foot. However, Mr. Justice McPhillips pointed out, he had had twelve hours before his arrest in which to remove this stain if he had been a guilty man and it was the natural inclination of a man to remove any trace of his wrongdoing if possible.

The Chief Justice declared if he had been trying the case he would have been inclined to find the others guilty with Brema. There had been absolutely no suggestion in the evidence that any other group of six Hindus had any motive for attacking Nama, he said.

BLOOD ON BOOT

In giving the other five defendants the benefit of the doubt the trial judge had not necessarily held that the alibi evidence they offered was satisfactory, but had ruled there was not sufficient evidence to convict them. The distinction in Brema's case was the blood on his shoe.

Mr. Cameron's argument occupied only half an hour. He stressed the point of the blood on Brema's boot, the animosity existing between the parties and corroborative evidence to the identification by Nama as supporting the conviction.

Mr. Henderson laid emphasis on the fact that the crown had been unable to establish that the blood was from Nama's body. It had also been unable to link any of the accused with the weapon found at the scene of the attack by the medium of fingerprints and he contended that in cases where common design was claimed there could not be a conviction against just one of the defendants.

The case occupied three sessions of the court.

COUNSEL ILL

Postponement in the appeal of W. C. Sponsugle of New Westminster against conviction and sentence of six months for theft was allowed by the court this morning owing to sickness of the appellant's counsel, L. H. Jackson, of Vancouver. Sponsugle was co-defendant with W. C. Hull in the New Westminster "ring X-ray" case, in which, it was alleged Hull swallowed a ring when apprehended in a jewelry store. By means of X-ray the ring was located in his stomach, but when it was recovered, turned out to be a cheap article and not the stolen ring.

MEN HOSTS TO CHURCH WOMEN

Fairfield Men's Club Stage Successful Banquet in Honor of W.A.

The banquet tendered the president and members of the Women's Association of Fairfield United Church yesterday evening by the Fairfield Men's Club, was symbolic of the appreciation of the contribution the ladies had made towards the maintenance and social responsibilities of the church.

Col. R. H. Campbell, who presided, in extending a welcome to the guests, spoke of the prevailing optimism that had inspired their endeavors and the strengthening influence they had given to other organizations of the church.

The attendance exceeded the expectations of the committee in charge and additional accommodation had to be provided. The tables, artistically arranged and decorated, the catering and serving, were all done by the men of the club, and aroused the astonished comments of the ladies, who were evidently unaware that their hubands were so domesticated, never having seen such knowledge displayed in their own homes.

Mrs. G. Piercy, president, thanked the club for the recognition of their contribution towards the endeavors of the church. At the head table were also Mrs. A. Keefe and Mrs. A. Schroeder, vice-presidents, and Mrs. A. C. Pike, secretary.

A musical and varied programme followed the banquet, each number being heartily received and the thanks of the club were extended to the contributors by W. M. Halliday. Those taking part were: Mrs. J. T. Keating, dramatic reading; Mrs. F. Rowley, soprano solo; trio, Messrs. R. Husband, L. Abbott, J. C. Warren; contralto solo, Mrs. R. Richards; soprano solo, Mrs. C. Edwards; quartette, Mesdames Keating and Barlow, Messrs. Warren and Abbott.

Mr. T. Hocking, in his inimitable humorous way, conducted an hour of pleasantry and whole-hearted fun, much enjoyed by all present.

Rev. Dr. E. A. King, pastor of the church, told of the aid the Women's Association had been to him in his pastoral work and the hearty response they had always given to the needs of the congregation. A new courage was required Dr. Henry said, and only by the organized will and co-operation of the members of the church as exemplified by the members of the Women's Association would the desired progress be realized.

Milton Lodge, Sons of St. George, will hold their usual business meeting in the A.O.F. Hall, Cormorant Street, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock, when special business will be discussed.

Leading U.S. Cage Teams Coming Here For Games With Ribbons

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Small Towns Provide Most of Players for Major Ball Leagues.

American League Clubs Will Try Out 110 Rookies This Spring.

Sheffield United Must Come Out of Slump to Retain Record.

THE SMALL towns of the United States still lead their city brothers in the matter of providing the major baseball leagues with first-class players. A study of the new American League rosters discloses that only twenty-six of the 110 young men selected, purchased or recalled by American League clubs are from the larger cities. Chicago leads in production of ivory for the big show with five sons. Of these, three are home-town boys being tried out by the White Sox, pitchers Ira K. Hutchinson and John Joseph Huck, and outfielder Milton Bocek. Another Chicagoan is infielder Roy Schalk, who will be taken south to the training camp by the New York Yankees. The other is pitcher Ed Linke, who will join the Washington Senators.

Few cities furnished more than one recruit for the American League this season. Philadelphia offers four, New Orleans four, New York City two, San Francisco two, Baltimore one, Cincinnati one and Cleveland one. Most of the lads began the business of life in such communities as Hoxie, Kan.; Aurora, Ariz.; Salitpa, Ala.; Mulberry, Tenn.; Pennacook, N.H.; and Rouzerville, Pa. One small town produced two candidates. The town is Decatur, Ala., and the two are outfielder Ray Pepper and pitcher Truett Sewell.

Southern states seem to lead in the supplying of the ivory. There are, for instance, those four lads born in New Orleans. One is outfielder George Stumpf, recalled by the Boston Red Sox. Another is Zeke Bonura, a first baseman purchased by the White Sox. The third is outfielder Johnny Oulliber, purchased by the Cleveland Indians. The fourth, also going to the Indians, is a recalled pitcher, Bill Perrin.

Quincy, Ill., offers a pitcher named Fritz Ostermueller to the Red Sox. Fritz is one of the more promising of the rooks, having won sixteen games while losing seven for Rochester last year before coming down with appendicitis.

From Allston, Mass., comes pitcher Justin McLaughlin, recalled by the rejuvenated, refinanced Red Sox. From Independence, Ore., comes pitcher Dale "Sleepy" Mills, via Peoria, Dayton and Elmira, to the White Sox. Caly Centre, Kan., sends catcher Morgan J. Snyder to the same team.

The Indians have acquired outfielder Julian "Babs" Johnson, born in Halstad, Minn., and first baseman Hal Trosky of the Norway, Ia., Troskys. Detroit is trying out Eldon Auker from Norcatur, Kan., and pitcher Joe "Tiger" Sullivan from Mason City, Ill.

The Yankees have second baseman Don Heffner from Rouzerville, Pa., and pitcher Marvin Webster Duke from Senoia, Ga. Philadelphia has pitcher George Matuzak who was born in Omer, Mich., and outfielder Ray Radcliff, Kiowa, Okla.

The Senators are fortifying themselves for another pennant march by acquiring pitcher Raymond Lee Prim, another left-handed screw ball artist, from Salitpa, Ala. After their experience in the last world series, the Senators probably figure it's nice to have a screw-baller on your side.

A glance over the English Football League standings shows that Sheffield United have experienced a definite slump and are in an exceedingly poor plight. The Blades, though once saved through the enlargement of the league, have never yet been relegated from the first division. A great improvement will have to be made in their play if they do not wish to spoil this fine record. For those interested in the statistical side of the game, it should be noted that no fewer than 439 players were called upon by the twenty-two first division clubs up to the half-way mark this season. An analysis also shows that Portsmouth, who have played with seven positions in the team unchanged, have been most fortunate in steering clear of injuries. Up until the half-way point they had called upon only fifteen players. The other side of the picture shows that Sheffield United and Stoke City had a very long roll call, their number of players being twenty-five and twenty-three respectively.

SCORE TO WIN IN OVERTIME

Duncan, Jan. 24.—At Evans Field on Sunday Salt Spring Island football team defeated the Thunderbirds by a score of 5 to 3. At full time the score was equal, but in the ten minutes' overtime play, allowed, Salt Spring scored two goals, which the Thunderbirds could not emulate. Solomon George was referee.

Molly Wallis Wins Club Handicap Race

At the well-attended weekly practice of the Pacific Swimming Club, held yesterday evening, under the direction of Coach J. Cameron, a mixed handicap was staged. It was won by Molly Wallis, fourteen-year-old member of the club.

Results follow:

First, Molly Wallis; second, Elenor Peden; third, Bill Chapin. Honor and Muney (scratch men) made good times, but were unable to overcome the heavy handicaps placed on them.

House of David Will Engage In Two Game Series

Colorful Squad to Meet Canadian Champions at High School Feb. 16 and 17

Dates Announced For All Fixtures

Several of the leading basketball teams in the United States will visit Victoria for games aginst the Blue Ribbons, Canadian champions, during the course of the next two months, according to a programme of exhibition fixtures announced to-day by J. A. Barnwell, president of the Ribbons. From now until the end of March followers of the cage game will be provided with high-class exhibitions between the national titleholders and outside competition. Feature of the fixture card is the two-game series against the touring House of David on February 16 and 17. All the games will be played at the Victoria High School gym

The complete list of games follows:

January 27—Gilmore Oil, Seattle.

February 3—Rousseau's Ramblers, Tacoma.

February 9 and 10—Perfection Dairy, Tacoma.

February 16 and 17—House of David.

Feb. 23 and 24—Ellensburg Normal School.

March 3—Horlucks.

March 9 and 10 or 16 and 17—B.C. championship play-downs.

Barnwell also stated that he was making every effort to have the Ribbons participate in the annual Northwest championship independent basketball tournament to be held in Seattle March 7, 8 and 9. This tournament will be many times more important than any one of the previous competitions, because this spring's event will determine the Northwest A.A.U. champions, and the titlist will be eligible to represent the northwest at the United States A.A.U. basketball meet at Kansas City. Barnwell is confident the Ribbons will receive the invitation to represent British Columbia in the tournament. Other entries will be from Washington, Oregon and Idaho. It would be the first time in history that a Victoria team has taken part in the event.

THE HIGHLIGHT

The highlight of the programme as far as local fans are concerned will be the return of the colorful House of David squad. These bearded gentlemen appeared in a game against the Ribbons last season and the cage fans are still talking about the brilliant exhibition put on by the visitors. They are one of the classiest outfits in America, and besides playing great basketball put on a brilliant show. They are expert ball handlers and know just about every trick of the game. It is doubtful if the High School gym will be big enough to accommodate the crowds these two games will attract.

USE DYKES SYSTEM

Rousseau's Ramblers, who will play here a week Saturday, are one of the finest independent squads in the northwest. The Ramblers are coached by Frank Ruffo, formerly of Santa Clara University, and use the Dykes system of play. The Dykes system features a five-man offence and a quarter-back system of delayed attack. The key player is the running guard, who acts as quarterback and directs the team on offence and defence. Plays are called for the centre tip-off and also after the ball is put into play. Every play remains in progress until a basket is made, until the ball is retrieved by the opposition or until play is halted by the referee. The Ramblers are built around Ray Pesco and Joe Lanza, former Santa Clara stars. Other members of the team are: Tinney Johnson, Forrest Weingard, Erling Tollefson, Vern Champagne, Ernest Ruffo and Frank Ruffo, coach.

The Perfection Dairy team from Tacoma is also another leading independent club in Tamoca, while the Ellensburg Normal School has long been recognized for its fine basketball teams. Horlucks are one of the three leading outfits in the Seattle Community League and rank in the same class as Gilmore Oil and McKay's Giants.

By the time the Ribbons have completed this strenuous schedule of games the players should be in first-class shape to open defence of their Canadian championship.

Quebec Beavers In Minor Hockey Lead

Quebec, Jan. 24.—Boston Cubs yesterday evening relinquished their hold on first place in the Canadian-American Hockey League by dropping their second straight game to Quebec Beavers here, 4 to 1. Although Beavers went to the top with a single point lead, they have played two more games than have the Cubs.

McCabe, Phillips, Blake and Toupon scored for Quebec, while Filmore tallied for Boston.

$800,000 TRACK FOR CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Jan. 24.—The richest racing purse in the world, $100,000, will be the stake for the feature handicap in the Los Angeles Turf Club when it opens its track here for racing in the spring of 1934, Hal Roach, president, said yesterday.

The Los Angeles Turf Club, listing some of the leading citizens of California as members of its board of directors, was granted a permit several weeks ago to build and operate a track in Southern California.

Plans presented to the commission called for completion of a track, clubhouse, grandstand, paddock and stables costing at least $800,000.

Victoria Rider and Partner One Lap Behind Leaders in Buffalo Race

Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 24.—Some hard fast riding by the veteran Reggie McNamara and his young teammate, Tiny Reboli, put them in the lead again to-day in Buffalo's six-day bicycle race. They were leading the field by a single lap gained during the early morning sprints after two other teams had tied the race up yesterday evening. They have covered 835 miles and nine laps, and have a total point score of 224.

N.H.L. MOGULS REVIEW CASE

Board of Governors of Major Hockey Circuit Settle Bailey-Shore Trouble

New York, Jan. 24. — The National Hockey League to-day endeavored to settle the Ace Bailey-Eddie Shore affair definitely when the board of governors met here in a special session called by President Frank Calder. Conny Smythe of the Toronto Maple Leafs gained the needed support and forced the session by protesting the ruling handed down by Director Frank Patrick.

Patrick ruled that Shore, who knocked Bailey to the ice, December 12, resulting in the Toronto star suffering a fractured skull, could return to the game next Sunday. Shore, himself slightly injured in the accident at Boston, was suspended following the game. Bailey hovered near death for several days, but he recently returned to Toronto. His future as a hockey player is a big question mark.

Should the governors rule in favor of Smytne, it will set a precedent. The entire case is expected to be reviewed.

ERNIE ANDERSON TO HANG UP TOGS

Calgary, Jan. 24.—After more than a decade in hockey, Ernie Anderson, diminutive right winger who started his ice career with the famous Selkirk fishermen in Manitoba, has decided to hang up his skates.

With the Calgary Tigers of the Northwestern Hockey League this season, "little Ernie" made known yesterday he is through for the season, and perhaps for all time. He refused to say definitely.

He is a veteran of western professional leagues. He played with the Regina Caps, Edmonton Eskimos and the Calgary Tigers in the old western Canada League, and then with the Minneapolis Millers and Duluth Hornets, now members of the Central American League. He has also performed on Seattle ice as a member of the Mets' squad.

The J.B.A.A. senior rugby team will hold a workout at the Athletic Park to-night at 8 o'clock. All players are asked to attend.

QUAKERS LOSE AGAIN

Praha, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 24.—The speedy Praha Lawn Tennis Club's hockey team to-day had a victory over the Saskatoon Quakers, Allan Cup finalists of last season, by the narrow margin of the only goal scored in a close struggle.

It was the second defeat in eight games of the European tour of the Quakers. Their opponents were the only team so far managing to mar the record of the other Canadian touring team, the Ottawa Shamrocks, who won every match in eighteen starts with the exception of a match in which the Lawn Tennis Club team held them to a tie here.

Wellington, N.Z., Jan. 24.—The visit of a New Zealand English rugby team to Canada in the spring or summer of 1936 was foreseen to-day.

The New Zealand Rugby Union decided to ask the International Board's permission for its team, which is touring the United Kingdom in 1935-36, to play two matches in France and to return by way of Canada, playing a series of matches there.

Hockey Player Is Fined $100

Bob Hughes, Tulsa, Punished For Rough Play in American Association

Kansas City, Jan. 24.—William F. Grant, president of the American Hockey Association, yesterday fined Bob Hughes, Tulsa player, $100 on a charge of using "rough tactics" in a game at St. Louis last Wednesday evening. The protest of the St. Louis team against the Tulsa 3 to 1 victory in the game was not allowed, however.

Dr. Frank Wainwright, owner of the St. Louis Club, had asked that Hughes be barred from further competition in the association as a result of a fight in which Hughes was the central figure. Grant's action was taken at a meeting of the association's executive meeting here yesterday.

Pete Palangio, St. Louis wing, continues to be the leading scorer in the association with a total of seventeen points in games played up to January 21.

FIVE-POINT LEAD

Official standings disclosed the big flyer had a five-point advantage over his nearest rivals, Mulvihill, Kansas City, Burns, Oklahoma City, and Padden, St. Louis, each with twelve points.

Palangio has scored thirteen goals and made four assists. Mulvihill was in second place in the matter of goals scored with eleven to his credit.

JOHN ROWLAND TO SEE EXPERT

Injured All-Canadian Rugger on Way to Montreal Seeking Recovery

On a long journey in quest of a complete recovery, Johnny Rowland, injured All-Canadian Rugby star, left yesterday for Montreal to secure the attention of Prof. Penfield, internationally known expert on brain operations.

The Victoria boy, who sustained an injury which kept him hovering between life and death for several weeks about fifteen months ago, is due to arrive in the eastern city on February 23 after the sea trip through the Panama Canal.

Decision to send him by water instead of land was reached in the hopes the steamer trip would be less tiring to him.

Since leaving St. Joseph's Hospital some time ago, Rowland has been convalescing under the care of his mother and has regained much of his strength.

While in the east, Johnny will visit relatives in Montreal.

PREDICTS NIGHTMARES

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Guy Bush stopped counting $20 bills in the tower of one of his gasoline and garage places on the northside yesterday to predict a pennant for the Chicago Cubs, a season of devilish nightmares for the National League's slow-ball pitchers, and boom days for eleven of the circuit's natural sluggers.

The eleven sluggers, who, the "Mississippi Mudcat" thinks, will give new lively ball one ride after another out of the National League parks, are Chuck Klein, Babe Herman, Hack Wilson, Bill Terry, the Waner brothers, Chick Hafey, Floyd Vaughan, Willy Berger, Mel Ott and George Davis.

N.H.L. Snipers On Rampage To Score Thirty-one Goals

Toronto, Canadiens, Rangers and Detroit Win High-scoring Exhibitions

Chuck Conacher Highest Scorer

Sharpshooters with one eye on the scoring averages and the other on next year's contracts are making life more difficult every day for the padded figures that guard goalmouths in the National Hockey League.

Netminders had one of their most bewildering evenings of the season yesterday evening, when thirty-one hard-driven pucks lodged in the loose twine behind them. So many goals in four games was another answer of the sort snipers give every little while to the contention goals are becoming scarce.

Toronto Maple Leafs, leaders in almost everything in the big time these days, were in the van again with an eight-goal scoring splurge against Montreal Maroons, whose four was enough to win them most games.

A greater challenge to Leaf supremacy than any other team in the league this season, Montreal Canadiens were almost as prolific as their rivals as they halted New York Americans' rush toward a playoff position with a 6 to 2 lacing.

Playing their 400th game in eight seasons, Rangers made five goals their contribution to the high-scoring evening and their New York celebration. Ottawa Senators, behaving as onlookers should at a party, got only two goals and little attention.

DETROIT BEATS BOSTON

Although they were able to beat Tiny Thompson three times, Detroit made the most of them, holding Boston to a single counter and going into a tie for United States division leadership with the Rangers. Chicago, idle, dropped back two points.

Almost everyone but George Hainsworth and Dave Kerr got in the scoring lists in the twelve-goal game at Toronto but Charlie Conacher, leading sharpshooter of the league, held his star spot with two goals and three assists. Harvey Jackson, Leaf left winger, got three goals and an assist.

The game, attended by 7,500, second smallest crowd of the season, produced good hockey only at times. Leafs scored once in the first period, got two to Maroons' one in the second and picked up five in the final session while the Montrealers were snaring three.

Maroons were unlucky at times and Hooley Smith particularly missed several good scoring chances. Toronto had little difficulty sifting through their defence and gave Kerr a tough evening of it.

Besides Jackson and Conacher, Toronto's scorers were Harold Cotton, Andy Blair and Joe Primeau. Russell Blinco, Glen Brydson, Earl Robinson and Hooley Smith got markers for the Montrealers.

PENALTIES HURT

Canadiens' win at Montreal made their hold on second place in the Canadian division more solid. They now are four points up on Maroons. Penalties hurt Americans' chances, four Habitant goals being scored when they had an edge in man power in the first period.

The Montrealers, through Johnny Gagnon and Aurel Joliat, scored two goals in htirty seconds, wiping out an early advantage Ronny Martin had given the Amerks. Again in the third when the New Yorkers were a man short Canadiens scored twice in less than a minute, Leo Bourgeault and Jack Riley getting credit.

Mondou got two more before the game ended and Eddie Burke also scored Americans' second in that frame. The officials imposed only three penalties.

The five original New York Rangers for whom the celebration was held at Madison Square Garden yesterday evening took a leading part in the hockey as well as the ceremonies. Bill Cook and Frank Boucher each got two goals and Boucher added two assists and Cook one. Bill's two markers came in the third period when Albert Leduc was in the penalty box and clinched the game for Rangers.

The other veterans of eight seasons, Murray Murdoch, Bun Cook and Ching Johnson, performed in their usual steady way. Des Roche got both Ottawa's goals and Vic Ripley scored the other one for Rangers.

Captain Herbie Lewis, Detroit, was the big shot in the win at Boston. After Cooney Weiland had scored in the first period he made it 2 to 0 in the middle frame. Boston threatened with Nels Stewart's goal in the

"400 NIGHT" FOR RANGERS

Lester Patrick and Five Players Honored For Lengthy Hockey Service

New York, Jan. 24.—New York Rangers and New York's hockey fans celebrated "400 night" yesterday evening between the first and second periods of the National Hockey League game with the Ottawa Senators. It was the 400th game for the Gotham Blue Shirts since the club was organized, eight seasons ago.

Five players, the Cook brothers, Bill and Bun, and Frank Boucher, the great first line stars; Ivan "Ching" Johnson, the big bald defenceman, and Murray Murdoch, who has not missed a single game of the 400, were called to the centre of the rink along with Manager Lester Patrick and Trainer Harry Westerby to receive the plaudits of the throng of 14,000 and a diamond ring apiece. They are the seven who are left from the original Ranger team.

MURDOCH GETS HAND

The tribute to Murdoch, the "iron man," was reserved to the end, and he received the biggest hand. Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees, baseball's "iron" athlete, came out to make the presentation to Murray.

Lou said that after seeing Murdoch taking his nightly beating against the boards he felt he had not accomplished anything. Murray, speaking only after the fans insisted upon it, haltingly replied that his little stunt of twenty minutes or so in 400 games hardly compared with Gehrig's 1,350 contests.

They both agreed to Gehrig's suggestion that, when they outlive their usefulness as athletes, they get together for a flagpole sitting contest.

SWIM RECORDS ARE BETTERED

Jack Medica and Olive McKean Establish New Marks in Seattle Pool

Seattle, Jan. 24.—Two United States swimming marks had been bettered here to-day after Coach Ray Daughters of the Washington Athletic Club had sent his two aces, Jack Medica and Olive McKean through their paces in their first competition of the winter swimming season.

Medica yesterday evening lowered Johnny Weissmuller's twenty-yard course time for the 300-yard distance from 3.12 2-5 to 3.11 4-5.

Miss McKean clipped a tenth of a second from Gertrude Ederle's twenty-yard course time for the 220-yard course, bringing it down to 2.41.1.

The meet was held under A.A.U. rules, with certified timers holding the watches in the record tries.

CONACHER ADDS TO HIS MARGIN

Leaders in the National Hockey League's scoring race went on another rampage yesterday evening, and when the smoke cleared young Charlie Conacher, who patrols the right boards for Toronto, had added five points to his already imposing total to pile up a still higher lead for the entire league. Conacher has now scored twenty-one goals and twelve assists to bring his total scoring points to thirty-three. Little Joe Primeau, Toronto, and Frank Boucher, Rangers, were still fighting it out for second place, and are tied with twenty-eight points.

The leaders follow:

Conacher, Toronto	21	12	33
Primeau, Toronto	8	20	28

In the second division of the Coast League all clubs will be in action, with the following matches carded: Esquimalt vs. Victoria City, Bullen Park, referee, Robb; Saanich Thistles vs. Victoria West, upper Beacon Hill, referee, Saunders.

Kickoffs are set for 2.30 o'clock.

Victoria City reached the final of the Milton Cup series after defeating Victoria West, while Saanich Thistles eliminated Esquimalt in an overtime struggle in the initial round, and then disposed of the Wests' second eleven before reaching the final.

CITY SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Getting away to a shakey start, Victoria City has shown gradual improvement, and last week defeated the Thistles, 4 to 1, in a league fixture at Beacon Hill. Since acquiring Gordon Chalmers, net custodian, the defensive strength of the City has been greatly improved. Chalmers is playing a steady game between the sticks, and has filled a longleft want in the City team.

The Thistles, until their defeat last week, were coasting along with Victoria West, in the top slot of the standing of the second half of the league. However, despite their setback last week, the lads bearing the surburban name, will be even favorites for Saturday's final.

Sensing the importance of the fixture, rival managers have arranged practice for their proteges, to make sure they will be in good shape for the battle. With this being the only senior attraction on Saturday's soccer menu, it is expected that one of the best crowds of the season will make its way to the park.

NEW CLUB FORMED

Victoria United is the name chosen for Victoria's representative eleven which will compete in the intercity league, in competition with New Westminster Royals, North Shore, Nanaimo, St. Saviours, Kerrisdale and St. Andrews, according to an anouncement made yesterday by local officials. The move was taken to conform with the rulings of the British Columbia Football Commission, but it will not hinder Victoria from entering a representative eleven in the loop.

An invitation was extended to Victoria by the commission to enter the league, and it was felt that in the best interests of the game, the invitation should be accepted. The first game for the local club is expected to take place here on February 10. Officials of the new body have not been selected, but announcement of their appointment is expected daily.

Bob McInnes To Manage Ruggers

When Victoria's rep rugby squad travels to Vancouver to clash with the University of British Columbia on February 10, the boys will be under the managerial wing of Bob McInnes.

At yesterday evening's meeting of the Victoria Rugby Union, McInnes, coach-manager of the James Bay Athletic Association and active rugby official here for many years, was appointed to the post.

SHAMROCKS WIN HOOP FIXTURE

Defeat Cardinals 25 to 21 in Peden Cup Game at High School

The second half of the Peden Cup basketball series opened yesterday, when the Victoria High School Shamrocks pulled a surprise victory over the Cardinals of the same institution, 25 to 21, Harold Turner, a newcomer to the Shamrocks, played a large part in the win, netting eleven points and featuring in every play.

Slow play marked the opening of the first period with neither team finding the hoop. Ishida of the Shamrocks broke through, followed by Turner, to put the Shamrocks four points up. Turner rang in another counter and the Cardinals retaliated with basets by Wallis and Andrews, to put the Cards in the lead of a 8 to 6 score. Set-ups were many in the first half, but faulty shots resulted in a low score.

THREE FAST BASKETS

The second stanza opened at a fair clip, with the Shamrocks tossing in three fast baskets. Both teams traded points till the score read 19 to 19, with five minutes to go. Guelpa intercepted a Shamrock pass, picked up the rebound and tossed the leather through the circle. From the tip-off, Turner of the Shamrocks, doubled under the hoops and tied the score, 21 to 21. On the next play, Turner again rang the bell, and Ishida put the game on ice with a free throw.

Norman Hill refereed.

The teams and individual scorers follow:

V.H.S. Shamracks—R. Shepherd (6), B. MacMurchie (2), P. Minnie, H. Turner (11), S. Noakes, M. Edge, J. Lowe (2), J. Ishida (4) and P. Lamb.

PAUL RUNGE'S COUNTER WINS

Nets Goal in Third Period to Give Windsor Ice Victory; Buffalo Victors

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 24.—Paul Runge speared a precious goal that gave Windsor Bull Dogs a 3 to 2 victory over Detroit Olympics in a wild and woolly International Hockey League game here yesterday evening before the largest crowd of the season. The score came after fourteen minutes of play in a lively third period session in which Olympics had a big edge in play until Runge's dramatic stroke. Frank Steele and Sparky Vail figured in the winning play.

Forbes stood off a stubborn barrage of the Detroiters in the third period until Runge scored and his mates successfully defended the small but formidable margin. Earl Roche, late of Ottawa Senators, appeared with Olympics.

In the final period, Art Berlett picked up a pass from Callighen and slapped it to Jarvis for the second goal.

In the final period, Roberts, the Cleveland goalie, made some phenomenal saves as his mates continued an organized attack. It was then, however, that Art Berlett snared the pass for the second goal.

HILL CAGEMEN MEET NEWSIES

Senior B Basketball Quintettes in Important Fixture This Evening

Colonist and Lake Hill, first and second berth occupants respectively, in the men's senior B division of the Victoria and District Basketball League, will provide the feature attraction of to-night's fixtures at the Victoria Hight School gym. Pantorium and Dad's Cookies, women's senior B cagers, will open the programme at 7.30 o'clock. The second fixture will bring together the Regents and Dealats, boys' intermediate teams, in the first of the two-game series for the intermediate B title. Tommy Macedo will handle the whistle.

With the recent acquisition by Lake Hill of Ralph Micheli, the suburban lads have added punch to their first line, and bettered their chances of taking the newspaper representatives into camp. Lake Hill already boasts of a victory over The Colonist and a win to-night will place the teams deadlocked in first berth in the race for the championship.

ROSS FAVORED OVER PETROLLE

Lightweight Champion 7 to 5 Choice to Win Ten-round Battle To-night

New York, Jan. 24.—The twisted-nosed old man in the Indian blanket, "Uncle Will" Petrolle, from Duluth and Fargo, trundles his veteran frame into action again to-night against a youngster brimming with youth and health, Barney Ross, Chicago, champion of all the lightweights.

That has come to be the traditional way of describing Blanket Bill until he climbs those fighting steps, as he does to-night in the Bronx Coliseum, for his ten-round return engagement with Ross.

Shortly thereafter you get very serious in your attitude toward the twenty-nine-year-old warrior. For, any moment from the first bell on, he is liable to plant in your lap any foolhardy youngster who believes what he reads in the papers.

Ross is one of those who cannot be fooled by Petrolle's liking for the old man role and an appearance that belies the fact that he still is one of the cagiest, huskiest punching prizefighters in the 140-pound bracket. On the basis of past performance, Ross is a 7 to 5 favorite with a match that promises something of a miracle in New York's present-day boxing—a sell out.

OUR MAIL BAG

BASKETBALL REFEREES

To the Sports Editor:—How should our referees be dressed? This question has been asked many times in the last few months by local basketball fans. When outside men are called in to take charge of play-off games it is a pleasure to note their neat appearance in their manner of dress and how easily distinguished they are from the members of the two teams. They give the spectators confidence that the game is going to be well handled and they are prepared to move with speed as the teams play. Now why cannot our local men, who handle the games, present themselves in a similar fashion? Instead they walk on the floor in regular old clothes, no style at all, and lounge around on the floor. If they did not have whistles with them it would look like they had just came out of a rain storm. These men get paid for handling these games, and a few dollars would easily get them grey or white flannels, with a white shirt and shoes What must the outside teams think of the men in charge of our games and us with the Canadian champions residing here?

In other cities the referees show their responsibilities by their neat manner. Why cannot we do the same?

There is no reason why the City League cannot help these men out. Also they do not have to have advertisements plastered on their backs. It certainly was a sad sight in the Canadian play-offs last year when our local referee had his back covered with a Victoria firm's advertisement, while Vancouver sent over a man to help him with the dress of a regular referee There is no reason why the local referees cannot appear in proper attire. We have had local referees in the past who dressed all in white, and if the visiting teams wore white, he always had a colored sweater to put on to save confusion.

A LOCAL BASKETBALL FAN.

TO PROTECT GAME DUCKS

United States Will Take Action to Prevent Decline of Water Fowl

Canadian Press

New York, Jan. 24.—The duck that annually wings his way from the north woods of Canada to the southern climes to furnish sport for 1,000,000 hunters, is to be included in President Roosevelt's recovery programme.

A four-point programme to help the duck, and incidentally his hunter, was outlined at the American game conference by Thomas Beck of Wilton Conn., chairman of the special United States committee on wild life restoration.

"There is evidence of a critical and continuing decline in our wild-life resources, especially migratory water fowl," said Beck.

"Our report," he said, "will propose the restoration of migratory water fowl nesting areas by purchase of a large number of such areas in the states where these birds naturally multiply if given proper environment and food." Beck addressed 600 delegates from practically every state in the union and from Canada.

EDMONTON IN SHUTOUT WIN

Defeat Calgary 4 to 0 to Gain Third Place in Northwest Hockey

Edmonton, Jan. 24.—Edmonton Eskimos to-day had climbed shakily onto the third rung in the Northwestern Hockey League ladder by mudling out a 4 to 0 victory over Calgary Tigers here yesterday evening before a slim audience of little more than 400 admissions. The defeat, however, did not shake Calgary out of their first berth position, a few points ahead of Vancouver Lions.

Whether it was because it was the first game the Bengals had played since Lloyd Turner turned over his managerial duties to Captain Gordon Savage or whether it was merely an off night for both teams and the fans alike, the game was one of the most ragged played here this season. Only the sturdy work of Robertson in the Esks nets prevented the northerners from losing the game themselves.

GAME IS ROUGH

Townsend, Scott, Gagne and Holmes were credited with Edmonton's tallies, two each in the first two periods. The final frame saw seven penalties handed out, among them two each to Kenny and Townsend.

Teams follow:

Calgary—McCusker, goal; Savage, Houbregs, defence; Gainor, centre; O'Neil and Harris, wings; Blyth, Coupez, Hutton, subs.

SUMMARY

First period—Edmonton, Townsend (Gagne), 14.40; Edmonton, Scott (Moher), 1.20. Penalties: Savage, Kenny, Townsend.

Second period—Edmonton, Gagne (Holmes-Arbour), 2.50; Edmonton, Holmes (Arbour), 3.10. Penalties: None.

Third period—No score. Penalties: Kenny (2), Heard, Townsend (2), Gainor, Blythe.

Glasgow, Scotland, Jan. 24.—Ottawa Shamrocks defeated the touring United States amateur hockey team yesterday evening, 5 to 1.

Lack of Exports In Wheat Causes Fractional Losses

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Jan. 24. — Continued absence of export demand proved discouraging to wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, and the market closed with net fractional losses of ¼ to ⅛ cents.

May wheat closed at 68⅜ and July option finished at 69⅜ to 69½ cents.

A little buying and a little selling occurred during the course of the day, but nothing of note developed. Export sales were meagre and no figure was placed on the movement.

Liverpool values were steady at levels unchanged to ¼d higher. Chicago quotations had a similar trend to Winnipeg. Demand for durum wheat for shipment to Germany featured cash grain sales. Other business in that department was small. Coarse grains values eased slightly in dull trading.

New York, Jan. 24.—Stocks were turned over in large volume to-day under profit-taking and accumulation flurries. While gains predominated during the most of the session, most of these were moderate. Prices tapered in the last half hour, but there was no pronounced pressure apparent and realizing was well absorbed. The close was steady. Transfers approximated 3,300,000 shares.

During the early hours the ticker tape frequently dropped behind floor transactions. Equities, however, got little help from grains, which were extremely narrow throughout. The dollar advanced moderately. Bonds generally were higher.

Rail shares led throughout, although they finally pared early gains of one to more than two points. The best of these were Santa Fe, N.Y. Ceneral, Norfolk & Western, Delaware & Hudson and Pennsylvania. Case, National Cash Register, Liggett and Myers B, General Electric, Columbian Carbon, General Motors and a number of others closed slightly higher.

Trading activity expanded considerably under a renewed demand for those equities which are supposed to benefit by dollar devaluation, government spending and recovery of business and industry over a broad front. While gains were moderate in most cases, and profit taking was evident in several groups, the undertone was firm.

Narrow movements characterized trading in Canadian securities. Shares of Canadian Pacific, Dome, McIntyre and International Nickel ruled from steady to slightly lower. On the curb Lake Shore Mines eased a point. Dominion Government 5s stiffened ½ point and other denominations were about even.

The dollar showed no erratic inclinations in foreign exchange dealings. Grains followed a narrow groove. Bonus were fairly steady.

The feeling was general that the near future equities market might be a much more selective one than recently.

LATE FIRMNESS ON BOND MART

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 24.—U.S. government issued firmed late on some increase in volume to-day. Small declines were converted to gains running from 1-32 to 6-32s, of a point near the close.

There was no marked change in trend in the corporate group, with the moderate early advances holding in many of the lower priced rail, utility and industrial issues.

Except for heaviness in some of the German loans, foreign issues were generally steady.

Chicago and North Western 4¾s New York Central 5s, Pennsylvania General 4½s, Warner Bros. 6s, Youngstown Sheet and Tube 5s and others were up about a point.

Why the marriage March Continues

Finds Hope Springs Eternal

Why Do People Marry?—Because They Think Their Marriage Will Be an Exception to the Failures All About Them, or Because They Will Gain Money or Position, or a Home or a Big Wedding, or Just Because They Still Believe in Love

SINCE the greater number of marriages are failures, why do otherwise intelligent people keep on marching to the altar?" asks a correspondent.

Oh, principally because hope springs eternal in the human breast and every pair of lovers are convinced that their marriage is going to be different from every other marriage that has ever taken place, and that they are going to establish a home that will be a little Paradise on earth. Where others failed they are going to succeed. There is never going to be any let-down in their marriage. It is always going to be lived on the heights.

They are never going to grow disillusioned and bitter and cynical, as so many husbands and wives do. They are not going to get careless and neglectful. They are never going to fight and quarrel. Their marriage is going to always be wrapped up in the pink chiffons of romance, and they are going to spend the balance of their days billing and cooing and giving the world a real example of domestic bliss.

Of course they have had plenty of warnings about the perils of marriage. They have seen with their own eyes enough disasters and wrecks to show them that matrimony is about the most hazardous adventure in which any one can engage. They have seen plenty of their own friends, who entered into the holy estate as optimistic and as cocksure of making a go of it is they are, who came out of it a few years later via the divorce route, with love's young dream smashed into smithereens.

There were Mary and John, who thought they would die if they could not marry and were forced to live apart who, after marriage, found out they had lost their taste for each other and would rather die than live together. There were Tom and Sue, who weighed on the price of marriage and begrudged making the sacrifices that it demanded, who turned their marriage from the grand sweet song with which it started out to an anvil chorus. And many and many another couple who made messes of their marriages.

But no boy and girl in love ever think this is going to happen to them. And so the marriage bells ring merrily on. And sometimes it doesn't happen, for there are enough to win out in the matrimonial lottery to encourage the onlookers to take a chance and buy what our colored friends call "a glory ticket."

Pimarily it is a biological urge, the desire for a mate, that causes people to marry. We crave a permanent human relationship. We want somebody who belongs to us, some one whose interests are our interests, whose fate is involved in ours, whose life is a part of ours, and who is bound to us by the closest ties that it is possible to weave between two human beings.

This call for a mate is Nature's most insistent demand, not only biologically but spiritually. A life unshared is as incompletely furnished as an old bachelor's or an old maid's home. It lacks flavor and purpose. A man must have a woman to work for. A woman must have a man to make comfortable. Or else there is no point to their labor.

And that is why not only young people marry, but even widows and widowers and divorcees, even those who have been unhappily married, try it again. Better, they think, to have a second-rater as a mate than none at all. Many a man and woman contemplating their wife or husband has said with Audrey: "A poor thing, but mine own."

Of course, love is not the only motivating power that sends people into matrimony. They marry for money, for position, for convenience, because they are lonely, because they are lazy and think it would be easier to work a husband or wife than at a job.

Many men marry to get a home. They are sick and tired of lodging houses and boarding houses and restaurants and clubs, and they want home cooking and somebody to look after the laundry and keep their buttons on and their socks darned. Other men marry in order to get a servant they do not have to pay.

For wife labor is scab labor, with no forty-hour week. Widowers rush into matrimony when they discover that it is a bankrupting proceeding to have to pay half a dozen women to do the cooking and cleaning and sewing and washing and mending that their wives did for their board and clothes. And lots and lots of men marry because some woman married them, and they never know how she did it.

A vast number of girls marry just because all the other girls are doing it and having big weddings and parading up the aisle in white satin and orange blossoms, and they long to have the spotlight turned on them for a minute. Also, they are bored and don't know what to do with themselves, and they think that it would be thrilling if they married and had their own homes.

And thousands of girls marry because they think it is a disgrace to be an old maid. They think that it shows they were not attractive to men and they have to annex a husband, no matter what a poor stick he is or how little they care for him, to prove they were just as pulchritudinous and had as much IT as other girls.

MAN MISSING FROM STEAMER

V. Alexandroff, Who Formerly Farmed Near Here, Disappeared From Princess Joan

Vladimir Alexandroff, seventy, a Russian who resided at Abbotsford, is believed to have been lost overboard from Ss. Princess Joan in the Gulf of Georgia recently.

The man failed to arrive here after departing on the ship from Vancouver last Thursday midnight. His rain coat and bag were discovered in the ship's smoking room.

Now friends in Abbotsford have reported to police that they have received letters from him wishing them good luck and stating that he intended to commit suicide.

He was a widower, and is survived by a daughter in Berkeley, Cal. He was a lawyer in Harbin and Vladivostok and eight years ago came to Canada and took up farming near Victoria. He later moved to Abbotsford.

Letter From a Man Of 90

About His Rheumatism

He asks us to excuse his writing. We do more than that—we congratulate him on being able to write at all at his age, especially as he has been suffering from rheumatism. This is what he says in his letter:

"Three years ago I was in bed for six weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. Since that time I have been taking Kruschen Salts, and have not had another attack. But my hands are still somewhat stiff. I take Kruschen every morning before breakfast, and shall continue to do so, because I am sure it has kept me in good shape for three years. Excuse this writing, as I am ninety years old, and use both hands to write."—J. R. G.

Kruschen dissolves away those needle-pointed crystals of uric acid which are the cause of all rheumatic troubles. It will also flush these dissolved crystals clean out of the system. Then if you keep up "the little daily dose," excess uric acid will never form again. (Advt.)

Ss. President Grant Battled Huge Seas Coming From Japan

Gale Raged at Sixty-five Miles an Hour in Mid-ocean, Capt. Healy Reports; Waves Were Thirty Feet High

After a ten-day battle with a series of fierce gales on the North Pacific, Ss. President Grant of the American Mail Line reached the Rithet piers this morning at 9.15 o'clock, from Orient ports. She was twenty-four hours behind schedule. Capt. R. J. Healy, commander of the ship, said the trip had been one of the roughest in his experience.

From the official log book of the liner it was learned that the ship ran into a roaring gale as she approached the 180th meridian. The wind howled at between sixty-five and seventy miles an hour and Capt. Healy was forced to order the speed of the ship cut to eight knots. Usually she does eighteen knots.

ANGRY SEAS

For a few days the President Grant battled this storm, and averaged only 195 miles in a twenty-four-hour period, instead of her usual 400 miles. Several ships in the vicinity were hove-to, Capt. Healy reported. But the Grant kept her nose into the seas and came through the storm in fine style. Great waves continually broke over the bow, dashed along the forward deck and sent spray battering against the bridge. Capt. Healy estimated the seas at between twenty-five and thirty feet in height.

"In the log books of some ships I have seen it entered that waves have reached a height of seventy feet. I do not believe it," Capt. Healy stated. "A thirty-foot wave is just about as big as any ship can stand. They look higher from the bridge, of course, but I don't believe a wave actually was ever higher than thirty-five feet at the limit."

Passengers aboard the President Grant reported days of rough weather, with big seas battering against her side and shaking her from stem to stern. Most of the travelers, except the children, were seasick, and were mighty glad to see land this morning. They had the utmost praise for the captain and his officers for the way they handled the ship.

THE PASSENGERS

Aboard the President Grant this voyage were: Rev. and Mrs. S. R. Anderson, missionaries from Shanghai, for Tennessee; Lieut. H. M. Denty, U.S.N., with Mrs. Denty and Miss Ann and Harry Denty, going to New York from Shanghai; Miss Celestia Fuller, a missionary from China, going to Tennessee to be married; F. M. Johnson from Hongkong, D. J. SHIP CAPTAIN GIVEN HONOR

Capt. George Gibbons of Ss. Franconia Made Aide de Camp to King George

Montreal, Jan. 24.—News was received from London by the Cunard Line that Captain George Gibbons, master of the Franconia, which sailed from New York January 9 for a southern cruise around the world, has been appointed aide de camp to King George V. This is the highest honor paid to officers in the British merchant marine. One A.D.C. is selected from the navy and one from the merchant marine every year. Each A.D.C. has a turn of duty during the twelve months, which means attending upon the King at levees and other naval functions in full uniform.

Captain Gibbons is fifty years of age and therefore will retain his rank as captain in the Royal Naval Reserve on the active list until he reaches fifty-five, when he will go on the retired list.

Among the masters of Cunard liners who served as A.D.C's to the King in their time were the late Sir James Charles and Sir Arthur Rostron.

Capt. R. V. Peel, master of the Mauretania, is commodore (retired) in the Royal Naval Reserve.

New Danish Liner Here This Evening

Ms. Europa to Pay Maiden Call on Victoria; Two Ships From Europe and Ms. Aorangi Expected Tomorrow

To the smart new Danish motorship Europa falls the honor of paying the first maiden call of 1934 on the port of Victoria. This ship is expected at the Ogden Point piers this evening at 9 o'clock. She will remain until about midnight before proceeding to Vancouver, King Brothers, local agents, were advised this morning. During her brief stay she will be open to public inspection, and many visitors are expected to look over her handsome accommodation.

The Europa has a cargo of fruit and vegetables from southern ports for discharge at Victoria. Several passengers are aboard, but they will proceed to Vancouver. Embarking at this port will be P. B. Fowler, retired manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, with Mrs. Fowler and Master Peter Fowler, going to England for a lengthy visit.

Starting long voyages to foreign lands, two Victorians left to-day for Vancouver, from where they will sail to-morrow morning by the Japanese motorship Hiye Maru for the Orient. They were F. J. Bourne of the Glenshiel Hotel, who will join the Ss. Katori Maru at Kobe and proceed by that ship to England, and Miss Jean Crerar, who is going to Hongkong to accept a position.

Ms. Aorangi is still expected to reach the William Head quarantine station to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu. She will reach the Rithet piers about an hour later, and remain two hours before proceeding to Vancouver. She has passengers, cargo and mails for Victoria and Vancouver. She is running a full day ahead of schedule.

Two ships from European ports will arrive in Victoria to-morrow morning. They will be the Loch Goil, of the Royal Mail Lines, and the Donaldson refrigerator ship Corrientes. Both ships are due during the morning.

A car of malt for San Diego, and 1,300 cases of assorted liquors from New Westminster for San Francisco will be included in the cargo to be taken south from Victoria to-night at midnight by the Ss. Dorothy Alexander for San Francisco and Los Angeles. The ship will also take out a fair list of passengers.

Two big passenger liners will keep the Rithet piers busy Saturday. In the morning the Grace liner Santa Elena is expected from New York, via Havana, the Panama Canal, and California ports, and in the early evening the Canadian Pacific lirer Empress of Asia will sail for the Orient.

Byrd Vessel Driven From Shore By Ice

Twenty Men Marooned Ashore at Little America; Supplies Being Taken From Ship; Explorations Continue

Aboard Admiral Byrd's Flagship, Bay of Whales, Antartica, Jan. 24.—(via Mackay Radio)—The second Byrd Antarctic Expedition was forcibly separated yesterday when the flagship was driven from her berth along the low shelf of crumbling ice by a strong southeast wind.

Twenty men were marooned ashore, three in the old winter camp at Little America, and the rest distributed among empty supply caches, four and a half miles south of the edge of the bay ice and the unloading station at its edge.

The vessel at noon was cruising slowly within the higher barrier walls of the bay, waiting for the weather to moderate. The wind already had commenced to die down and it was likely a mooring could be effected shortly.

WORK PROCEEDS

The work of the expedition went on regardless of separation. From midnight on, one could make out from the ship, with the help of a glass, men towing supplies on the bay ice, the dog teams hurrying loaded sledges to a transfer depot a mile and a half to the southeast. Two tractors were ferrying the stuff to the emergency cache three miles further on.

During the last four days the runners of the sledges and the broad treads of the tractors had won a broad highway across the smooth plain of the bay ice. Orange colored flags marked it off, sunk at 100-foot intervals. All along were piles of boxes, crates and bags of food and other materials, arranged so that the breaking up of the ice, which was in continuous progress, would not endanger a large amount of stores.

WATER OBSCURED

The wind sprang up early Monday night while unloading was in full swing. It picked up clouds of drift, driving it down the shiny walls so that it felt like a waterfall, and the cold draft pouring over warmer waters of the bay formed a thick smoke which in a short time completely obscured the water.

Although the barrier rolling to the south showed in the midnight sun with undiminished blightness, the bay swell, together with the push of wind, slowly started to carry away the four telephone poles which were employed as castoffs to keep the ship from smashing her plates against the submerged ice foot.

Admiral Byrd gave orders to cast off and unloading ceased instantly. At 12.30 a.m. the ship moved out of blinding sunlight into the chill fog of the bay.

The ship was scarcely clear before the shore gang was piling stores upon waiting dog sledges. The imminence of bad weather and the danger that the inconstant wharfage would suddenly start out to sea caused Admiral Byrd to apply the lash.

FLOES BREAK UP

Saturday afternoon a floe as long as twenty city blocks and almost as wide broke off just half a mile from where the ship lay. It happened suddenly and quietly. Since then, both to the right and left of the ship, large floes have been constantly separating from the main flooring.

One encouraging discovery has been made. At first it was thought the 450 tons of supplies would have to be hauled upward of twenty miles. A fairly short passage has been found which cuts the distance to 6.3 miles.

Finn Ronnie on a long expedition made the discovery. He traversed the west edge of the pressure area composed of high sides and deep crevices, southwards from the edge of the bay, and after four and a half miles of rather dangerous exploring he found a feasible passage. He went, sleepless forty-seven hours to do it and risked his neck twice, breaking through thinly roofed crevices and saving himself by bridging the opening with his arms.

SAW WATER

"I was traveling over what appeared to be firm snow," he said, "when suddenly I was clutching at the snow with both arms and my skis were swinging in empty air. When I looked down I saw water about forty feet below. You bet I came out of there fast."

The crew excavating Little America was ordered by radio to establish a camp where an emergency cache will be placed on the west side of the passage. A dozen dog drivers, five tractor drivers and four members of the aviation unit are now living there in tents. A radio operator is maintaining constantly hourly communication with the ship and with Little America.

Al Carbone, by his own modest claim the best cook in the marine corps, was faced with the problem of setting up trail cookers. A dog driver came in with the report that Carbone said he would rather try to cook dinner for a regiment in a derby hat.

CRUISE STAFF IS SELECTED

New York, Jan. 24.—Outstanding experts in various fields have been chosen as members of the cruise staff for the voyages of the Cunard liner Aquitania, from New York to the Mediterranean on January 31 and again on March 7.

The Cruise Director will be Francis Peapody Hamlin, who has had plenty of experience on other Cunard cruises including the exacting round-the-world variety.

Lucille B. Van Siller will be the social directress. She has had experience in the social life of diplomatic Washington.

R. A. Gordon will be assistant cruise director, and Leon Dabo will be cruise lecturer. The latter is internationally known as a painter and a speaker of remarkable facility. He has studied under great masters, and many of his works hang in the Luxembourg and the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

Other members of the cruise staff include Mrs. D. B. Wisdom, bridge hostess, who will also give bridge classes; George Ferrier, golf director, who has been the ship's "pro" on a good many Cunard cruises. He has played on most of the Mediterranean courses, and will help the passengers to arrange matches and rounds on some of the best courses.

PERMIT PRINCE TO LEAVE SHIP

Alexis Mdivani Held Aboard Ms. Hikawa Maru at Yokohama For Several Hours

Yokohama, Japan, Jan. 24.—The reunion of Prince Alexis Mdivani and his pretty bride, the former Barbara Hutton, will occur in Yokohama as planned.

Late to-day the French consul gave immigration authorities the required guarantees and Alexis was permitted to come ashore from the liner Hikawa Maru.

Local authorities had been unable to determine the status of the Georgian passport carried by Alexis, so they asked him to wait aboard ship for several hours after its arrival here yesterday while Tokio officials browsed through atlases and almanacs.

Mdivani motored toward Tokio, intending to spend the night there. He will meet his wife here Friday.

Alexis was temporarily denied permission to land yesterday upon his arrival on the Hikawa Maru.

Mdivani found himself in the eyes of Japanese immigration officials a man without a country.

He presented an expired diplomatic passport of Georgia, the land in which his princely title originated, which was something new and strange in the experience of officials.

He was denied a permit to land until the matter had been referred to the Foreign Office.

Four hours after the arrival of the Hikawa Maru he was still aboard while Tokio was considering his case.

The Hikawa's radio operator declared Mdivani was the best customer in his experience. He said the prince sent a radio message to his wife aboard the Tatsuta Maru twice daily while crossing the Pacific along different steamer lanes, she replying almost equally profusely.
